Celia Ravages Texas Coast; 4 Killed

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Hurricane Celia, smashed this city and nearby towns with a devastation a senator said hasn't been equalled in an urban area since World War II, battered its way into Mexico today, still virile and destructive. Celia's winds were clocked at 80 miles an hour at Del Rio today — well over hurricane velocity of 75 m.p.h. But the Weather Bureau refused to maintain the label of hurricane because the wind was not sustained. Damage at Del Rio and Eagle Pass was extensive with severe winds continuing into the morning. At least 22 persons died as Celia swept from Cuba into Mexico. No one could count the injured here, and the shocked Corpus Christi survivors made no immediate effort to assess the huge monetary losses.

Some towns were virtually wiped out in the 145-m.p.h. winds here, buildings were destroyed, and show windows popped slivers of glass into the streets like shrapnel. Four were known dead and a fifth presumed drowned here. Celia caused one death in Cuba while she still was only a storm. On Florida's coast, 12 persons drowned because of undertows and rough waters spawned by the hurricane. With weapons, briefcases and tools, rescue repair and relief experts headed for Corpus Christi and its environs—when ever they could get in. State patrolmen blocked all roads and even relatives of residents were barred. Another 200 National Guardsmen poured into the region at dawn. There was an almost complete blackout of communications and power in Corpus Christi and surrounding areas. There were unconfirmed reports of up to 200 persons injured in Aransas Pass and another 200 hurt in Corpus Christi. The storm struck Corpus Christi at the height of the vacation season. Thousands of windows were blown out, and shattered glass littered the street. Palm trees were smashed, light standards toppled, power lines felled and autos were overturned. Boats were blown out of the marina. "It's a shambles," said Mayor Jack Blackmon. The communities across the bay were hurt worse. "Ninety per cent of the buildings are gone," said City Manager Gay Walker at Aransas Pass, a town of 7,000. From Ingleside, Municipal

Judge Troy Kizer said: "This place is practically wiped out." Ninety-eight per cent of neighboring Rockport was "totally demolished," said civil defense worker Dick Hawkins. Celia hit Corpus Christi Bay squarely as she roared over the coastline in mid-afternoon at Aransas Pass. Tides boiled over Padre Island. City officials said looting started in Corpus Christi before the winds had died down. A small detachment of national Guardsmen sent into the rain-drenched city was quickly enlarged to 200 men. Backmon declared a 24-hour curfew. As darkness fell and the rain subsided, the city that described itself as the Sparkling City by the Sea was without electricity, telephones and water. (Continued on Page 12)

RAIN OR SHINE — Vicki Fraunfelter and Larry Kempton, king and queen of the Pickaway County Fair, didn't let a little rainfall dampen their spirits Monday. Fair officials report attendance is up at the 25th annual event which ends Friday.

For the remainder of the week, the livestock show arena and the barn area will be a beehive of activity with the beef show and the open dairy show Wednesday, the sheep show Thursday and the 4-H dairy projects Friday.

Savings Bond Rate Hiked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted the Treasury Department authority to raise the interest on U.S. savings bonds to 5½ per cent. The proposal, still subject to House approval, would raise the rate from 5 per cent, effective last June 1. Such action by the Treasury would be subject to approval of the president. Sen. John Williams, R-Del., backed the provision onto an unrelated House-passed bill. He said the boost would help the average American who cannot get higher yields available to wealthy investors in the bond and real estate markets. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., suggested raising the savings bond rate to a level equal to or higher than that paid by savings and loan associations might further reduce the availability of money for new housing. The provision passed on a voice vote.

Army Defends Plan To Dump Gas In Ocean

Say Rockets Are Becoming More Dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defending its plan to dump 15,540 concrete-encased nerve gas rockets in the Atlantic, the Army has told Congress the rockets are virtually harmless and—in the same breath—increasingly dangerous. "We can conceive no accident that would set the rockets off," Brig. Gen. William W. Stone told a House oceanography subcommittee Monday. He said the Army had tested mock-ups of the rockets' 418 steel-jacketed coffins by setting off a 50-pound dynamite charge under one and firing armor-piercing bullets into another. Neither set off any test rockets which contained live explosives but none of the deadly, odorless gas, Stone said. By contrast, however, Army Undersecretary Thaddeus R. Beal said the Army did not want to delay getting rid of the rockets because they were becoming more dangerous.

He was asked to delay the Aug. 10 date for shipping the rockets from Anniston, Md., and Lexington, Ky., to Sunny Point, N.C., where the Army plans to load them aboard a barge to be scuttled 282 miles off Florida in 16,000 feet of water. "We do not wish to take the responsibility of doing that," Beal replied. "Our plan is to proceed."

He said a committee of civilian specialists headed by Dr. Paul Gross of Duke University had recommended the decade-old rockets be jettisoned "without delay" because their explosive and propellant charges might be getting dangerously unstable with age.

"Time is of the essence," Beal said. He said the Gross committee's first proposal—vaporizing the rockets in an underground nuclear blast—was rejected because the Atomic Energy Commission said it would take 15 months.

Later in Miami Rep. William C. Cramer, R-Fla., said Army Secretary Stanley Resor had given him "absolute assurance" the rockets would not be shipped until the subcommittee hearings ended.

Beal said the Army planned to take maximum precautions in shipping the rockets. He said the trains would creep along at 35 miles an hour, following pilot trains that would scout the tracks for dangers. Aerial observers would keep watch over the trains by day and searchlights would probe the night, he said.

Saxbe Says Agnew Watch A 'Gimmick'

WASHINGTON (AP) — "It's just a gimmick," said Sen. William B. Saxbe after he appeared on the Senate floor Monday wearing a Spiro Agnew wrist watch. "It was given to me by a constituent," the Ohio Republican said. "I don't have any feeling of antagonism toward the vice president."

U.S. Admits Cambodia Bombing Steubenville 'Dirtiest' U.S. City

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — "The shock of being No. 1 may be the silver lining to a very dark pollution cloud," Mayor Andrew W. Miller said Monday night after learning that this Ohio River city of 34,000 had been ranked the dirtiest in the United States.

"Maybe this dubious distinction will be the impetus that will cause the various governmental subdivisions to cooperate in setting standards that will help solve the air pollution problem," the mayor said.

In preliminary 1970 air pollution rankings Monday, the National Pollution Control Administration in Washington placed Steubenville No. 1 in the category of visible particulates, such as dirt, smoke and soot. New York City was named as the most fouled with sulphur oxides.

Mayor Miller said the administration's report pointed up the need for an interstate, inter-county program for fighting air pollution in this area.

He said most of the air pollution for which Steubenville is blamed comes from industrial plants located in the Ohio River Valley to the immediate north and south of this community and from steel plants across the river in West Virginia.

Patsy De Luca, deputy control officer of the Steubenville Air Pollution Bureau, said most of the city's air pollution comes from big industrial plants, all of which use coal, located just outside the city in Jefferson County which does not have a pollution control program.

Plants in Toronto to the north and Brilliant to the south and in Weirton and Follansbee, W. Va., also are contributors, he said.

De Luca said his bureau had been monitoring the air here since the bureau was established four years ago and there has been no improvement in pollution eradication during that time. He said all but about five per cent of the homes in Steubenville have converted to gas or electricity for heating.

"You would think that would show some improvement in the air pollution problem, but then the pollution put out by the homes was only a drop in the bucket to what is being poured into the air by the industrial plants," he added.

De Luca said Steubenville residents have to pay an average of $85 more a year for various types of cleaning because of the dirty air. This includes car washings, house paintings, clothes cleaning and personal cleanliness.

He said the industrial plants in the area have been holding off on installing pollution control equipment until state and

Midway Chatter

Wayne Hines, Walnut Twp. Ayrshire breeder, reported his herd of show animals at the fair increased. Two of his cows calved, one at 9 p.m. Monday and the other at 7 a.m. today.

And David Faulkner of the Salt Creek Livestock Club had an increase in his "fair family." A sow he took in as a project farrowed six pigs about 9 p.m. Monday.

John Scanlon, Griest Road, has an animal he would have liked to take to the fair, but said there was no class for it. About two years ago Scanlon purchased a Welsh pony for his children, John, Jerry, Joe, Jeff, Kathleen, Mike and Greg. The pony foaled a mule colt, something of a rarity these days.

A junior fair dance was held Monday at the 4-H and Grange Building. The Infinity was the band. The area outside the building was packed, but it was pretty warm and steamy inside after yesterday's showers, so the young dancers did not tarry too long between numbers.

The 4-H horse and pony show was last night's grandstand feature. The show was quite large and it was midnight before it was completed.

Because of the record number of entries in today's harness racing program, post time has been advanced to 5:45 p.m. it was announced by John Fissell, speed secretary.

Man Files Suit Over Jail Time

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Attorneys for Allen G. Pinkney, 20, who spent 469 days in Cuyahoga County Jail awaiting trial for two murders he did not commit, have lodged a claim for $175,000 against the state.

Attorneys Fred H. Mandel and Jay B. White contend Pinkney's incarceration was a "nightmarish experience" and that it cost him $8,000 in lost wages.

Pinkney and Michael P. Jones, 19, both of Cleveland, were charged with first-degree murder in the 1969 slayings of a policeman and tavern owner. They were freed and two other men indicted last month on the basis of new evidence in the case.

Jones had been convicted and was serving a life sentence at the Ohio Penitentiary when he was freed. Pinkney had gone to trial last November, but the trial ended in a hung jury.

He said the judge—who had no public comment—indicated he would rather rule on the matter after studying the President's statement.

Fitzgerald said the defense fears the jury, although sequestered, may be "tainted" by the comments, and possibly the judge as well.

He said that although the jury doesn't read newspapers or see a later time this year with the hope of increasing attendance. It will be a fast-moving program since the 12 heats must be completed by 8 p.m. when the battle of the bands is scheduled to start.

The battle of the bands already has seven entries and Bill Thornton, chairman of the event, is accepting entries right up to the time the program starts. It is one of the most attractive features at the grandstand to the younger generation. Bands from all over central Ohio will be competing for the first prize of $75. Second prize is $50 and third $25 in the event.

County Agent George Hamrick appeared relaxed today. "Dave Owens (county 4-H agent) is doing all the work and I'm just ginning around for him," Hamrick explained.

The 4-H market barrow show is something else to watch. The show ring is always crowded and the young exhibitors always have trouble just staying near their animals. The show is strictly for barrows, but Judge Harold DeLong spotted a gilt in the lightweight class this morning. Needless to say, the gilt wasn't placed.

Mail Reform Bill Passed By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A reform bill turning management of the nation's mails over to a corporation-style agency, and providing an 8 per cent pay raise to mailmen, was passed Monday by the Senate, 57 to 7.

Final congressional approval, sending the landmark measure to President Nixon, is likely Thursday in the House.

The larger chamber could have acted by Wednesday but the leadership agreed to give members more time to study it before the final vote, said Rep. Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y.

Terms of the measure were worked out in negotiations with the House.

Under the measure, an independent postal service would be run by an 11-man board of governors. The bill would end nearly all aspects of 181 years of congressional control of the mails.

Provisions for a congressional veto of mail rates were eliminated in the compromise version. The rates will be set by an independent five-man rates commission.

Interdiction Raids Made Against Reds

SAIGON (AP) — American officials in Saigon admitted today that U.S. planes are bombing in Cambodia in response to requests from Cambodian authorities.

"We are responding to any one's request for interdiction missions in the area of Cambodia," one official said. Inform sources disclosed that as many as 50 American fighter-bombers, each carrying about eight tons of bombs and rockets, are taking part each day in raids on Cambodian territory.

The U.S. Command repeated its earlier statement that U.S. air attacks in Cambodia are directed at "enemy troops or material which could threaten U.S. and other free world lives in South Vietnam." But other officials gave the impression that American planes are also attacking Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops that threaten Cambodian forces.

"If the Cambodians say there is an enemy troop concentration or supply area at a given point," said one source, "and U.S. bombers go in to interdiction, this seems well within President Nixon's ground rules."

"We sometimes get a peripheral or side benefit," said another official. "If it happens to be enemy troops, we're not going to complain. But officially it's interdiction."

The Cambodian deputy commander in the Kiri Rom area southwest of Phnom Penh told newsmen Monday that U.S. Air Force Phantoms were supporting his troops by regularly bombing enemy forces in his area, which is miles west of any

Hit Favoritism To Steel Plant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government spent nearly $40 million to build a special super-highway as a favor for a new steel plant in rural Illinois, investigators have told Congress.

The 13-mile spur on the interstate highway system was criticized as unjustified in the report Monday by the General Accounting Office (GAO).

The Interstate 180 link, which was opened last fall, runs to the entrance of the new Jones & Laughlin steel plant at Hennepin, Ill.

The GAO, which acts as Congress' watchdog on federal spending, said the steel company's officials insisted on a four-lane superhighway spur at the price of locating the plant in the tiny Illinois town.

The interstate highway cost $47 million, with federal funds providing $39 million of the total and the state paying the rest. The price was four times the average cost per mile nationally.

Hennepin, which has a population of 391, is a village on the Illinois River about 100 miles southwest of Chicago.

The report criticized the Federal Highway Administration for turning down other requests for spurs in larger metropolitan areas like Tucson, Ariz., and Tacoma, Wash., while approving the I-180 route.

The superhighway link dips down from Interstate 80, a major cross-country route running west from Chicago, and ends in a cloverleaf at the entrance to the steel plant.

It includes a new bridge built over the Illinois River just west of the plant.

The GAO report said the steel firm's officials had demanded construction of the I-180 spur so "hat trucks would have an easy access to the main I-180 route to Chicago."

"No other interstate spur route has been constructed primarily to serve a private manufacturing company, and no other interstate spur route serves an area with such a small population," the GAO said.

Fear For Safety Of Kidnaped Men

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The U.S. Embassy says it fears for the safety of two kidnaped foreign officials—one an American—because of the Uruguayan government's refusal so far to negotiate with their guerrilla captors.

An Interior Ministry communiqué Monday rejected a demand by the Tupamaro rebels for the release of an estimated 150 imprisoned members of the organization as ransom for Daniel A. Mitrone, 50, an American aid adviser to the Uruguayan police, and Brazilian consul Aloysio Mares Dias Gomide, 41.

The communiqué said Tupamaros held by the government are not political prisoners but are members of a "criminal organization."

Saxbe Says Agnew Watch A 'Gimmick'

WASHINGTON (AP) — "It's just a gimmick," said Sen. William B. Saxbe after he appeared on the Senate floor Monday wearing a Spiro Agnew wrist watch. "It was given to me by a constituent," the Ohio Republican said. "I don't have any feeling of antagonism toward the vice president."

U.S. Admits Cambodia Bombing Steubenville 'Dirtiest' U.S. City

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — "The shock of being No. 1 may be the silver lining to a very dark pollution cloud," Mayor Andrew W. Miller said Monday night after learning that this Ohio River city of 34,000 had been ranked the dirtiest in the United States. "Maybe this dubious distinction will be the impetus that will cause the various governmental subdivisions to cooperate in setting standards that will help solve the air pollution problem," the mayor said.

In preliminary 1970 air pollution rankings Monday, the National Pollution Control Administration in Washington placed Steubenville No. 1 in the category of visible particulates, such as dirt, smoke and soot. New York City was named as the most fouled with sulphur oxides. Mayor Miller said the administration's report pointed up the need for an interstate, inter-county program for fighting air pollution in this area.

He said most of the air pollution for which Steubenville is blamed comes from industrial plants located in the Ohio River Valley to the immediate north and south of this community and from steel plants across the river in West Virginia. Patsy De Luca, deputy control officer of the Steubenville Air Pollution Bureau, said most of the city's air pollution comes from big industrial plants, all of which use coal, located just outside the city in Jefferson County which does not have a pollution control program.

Plants in Toronto to the north and Brilliant to the south and in Weirton and Follansbee, W. Va., also are contributors, he said. De Luca said his bureau had been monitoring the air here since the bureau was established four years ago and there has been no improvement in pollution eradication during that time. He said all but about five per cent of the homes in Steubenville have converted to gas or electricity for heating. "You would think that would show some improvement in the air pollution problem, but then the pollution put out by the homes was only a drop in the bucket to what is being poured into the air by the industrial plants," he added.

De Luca said Steubenville residents have to pay an average of $85 more a year for various types of cleaning because of the dirty air. This includes car washings, house paintings, clothes cleaning and personal cleanliness.

He said the industrial plants in the area have been holding off on installing pollution control equipment until state and federal money is available. (Continued on Page 2)

Midway Chatter

Wayne Hines, Walnut Twp., Ayshire breeder, reported his herd of show animals at the fair increased. Two of his cows calved, one at 9 p.m. Monday and the other at 7 a.m. today.

And David Faulkner of the Salt Creek Livestock Club had an increase in his "fair family." A sow he took in as a project farrowed six pigs about 9 p.m. Monday.

John Scanlon, Griest Road, has an animal he would have liked to take to the fair, but said there was no class for it. About two years ago Scanlon purchased a Welsh pony for his children, John, Jerry, Joe, Jeff, Kathleen, Mike and Greg. The pony foaled a mule colt, something of a rarity these days.

A junior fair dance was held Monday at the 4-H and Grange Building. The area outside the building was packed, but it was pretty warm and steamy inside after yesterday's showers, so the young dancers did not tarry too long between numbers.

The 4-H horse and pony show was last night's grandstand feature. The show was quite large and it was midnight before it was completed.

Because of the record number of entries in today's harness racing program, post time has been advanced to 5:45 p.m. it was announced by John Fissell, speed secretary.

Man Files Suit Over Jail Time

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Attorneys for Allen G. Pinkney, 20, who spent 469 days in Cuyahoga County Jail awaiting trial for two murders he did not commit, have lodged a claim for $175,000 against the state. Attorneys Fred H. Mandel and Jay B. White contend Pinkney's incarceration was a "nightmarish experience" and that it cost him $8,000 in lost wages.

Pinkney and Michael P. Jones, 19, both of Cleveland, were charged with first-degree murder in the 1969 slayings of a policeman and tavern owner. They were freed and two other men indicted last month on the basis of new evidence in the case.

Jones had been convicted and was serving a life sentence at the Ohio Penitentiary when he was freed. Pinkney had gone to trial last November, but the trial ended in a hung jury.

He said the judge—who had no public comment—indicated he would rather rule on the matter after studying the President's statement. Fitzgerald said the defense fears the jury, although sequestered, may be "tainted" by the comments, and possibly the judge as well.

He said that although the jury doesn't read newspapers or see (Continued on Page 12)

Hit Favoritism To Steel Plant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government spent nearly $40 million to build a special super-highway as a favor for a new steel plant in rural Illinois, investigators have told Congress. The 13-mile spur on the interstate highway system was criticized as unjustified in the report Monday by the General Accounting Office (GAO).

The Interstate 180 link, which was opened last fall, runs to the entrance of the new Jones & Laughlin steel plant at Hennepin, Ill.

The GAO, which acts as Congress' watchdog on federal spending, said the steel company's officials insisted on a four-lane superhighway spur at the price of locating the plant in the tiny Illinois town.

The Interstate highway cost $47 million, with federal funds providing $39 million of the total and the state paying the rest. The price was four times the average cost per mile nationally.

Hennepin, which has a population of 391, is a village on the Illinois River about 100 miles southwest of Chicago. The report criticized the Federal Highway Administration for turning down other requests for spurs in larger metropolitan areas like Tucson, Ariz., and Tacoma, Wash., while approving the I-180 route.

The superhighway link dips down from Interstate 80, a major cross-country route running west from Chicago, and ends in a cloverleaf at the entrance to the steel plant.

It includes a new bridge built over the Illinois River just west of the plant.

The GAO report said the steel firm's officials had demanded construction of the I-180 spur so "hat trucks would have an easy access to the main I-180 route to Chicago."

"No other interstate spur route has been constructed primarily to serve a private manufacturing company, and no other interstate spur route serves an area with such a small population," the GAO said.

Fear For Safety Of Kidnaped Men

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The U.S. Embassy says it fears for the safety of two kidnaped foreign officials—one an American—because of the Uruguayan government's refusal so far to negotiate with their guerrilla captors. An Interior Ministry communiqué Monday rejected a demand by the Tupamaro rebels for the release of an estimated 150 imprisoned members of the organization as ransom for Daniel A. Mitrone, 50, an American aid adviser to the Uruguayan police, and Brazilian consul Aloysio Mares Dias Gomide, 41. The communiqué said Tupamaros held by the government are not political prisoners but are members of a "criminal organization."

Interdiction Raids Made Against Reds

SAIGON (AP) — American officials in Saigon admitted today that U.S. planes are bombing in Cambodia in response to requests from Cambodian authorities. "We are responding to any one's request for interdiction missions in the area of Cambodia," one official said. Informal sources disclosed that as many as 50 American fighter-bombers, each carrying about eight tons of bombs and rockets, are taking part each day in raids on Cambodian territory.

The U.S. Command repeated its earlier statement that U.S. air attacks in Cambodia are directed at "enemy troops or material which could threaten U.S. and other free world lives in South Vietnam." But other officials gave the impression that American planes are also attacking Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops that threaten Cambodian forces.

"If the Cambodians say there is an enemy troop concentration or supply area at a given point," said one source, "and U.S. bombers go in to interdict, this seems well within President Nixon's ground rules."

"We sometimes get a peripheral or side benefit," said another official. "If it happens to be enemy troops, we're not going to complain. But officially it's interdiction."

Seek Tate Mistrial Due To Nixon Statement

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Defense attorneys in the Sharon Tate murder trial say they'll ask again for a mistrial today because President Nixon said defendant Charles M. Manson is "guilty, directly or indirectly, of eight murders without reason."

One of the lawyers, Paul Fitzgerald, said of Nixon's comments: "We know this is unprecedented in the history of jurisprudence. Seldom if ever has a president taken an interest in a state murder trial." "I am shocked and bewildered," Fitzgerald said. "If the President of the United States is going to say this, then the ball game is over."

Nixon issued a statement later in Washington saying that he didn't intend to speculate about Manson's guilt or innocence. "The defendants should be presumed to be innocent at this stage of their trial," he said. Nixon's original remarks, made to newsmen at Denver, reached the courthouse at lunch recess Monday. When court resumed, all attorneys approached the bench for a conference with Superior Court Judge Charles Older. Court sources said Manson's attorney, Irving Kanarek, made a motion for a mistrial on the basis of prejudicial publicity. He was joined by federal standards have been set. Jefferson County and the City of Steubenville are working on plans for a joint pollution control program which is expected to go into effect soon, De Luca said.

He said the city now has 39 test sites for monitoring the air in the city and county and in Brooke and Hancock counties in West Virginia.

Other Ohio cities ranked in particulate pollution were Youngstown, ranked 22nd; Cleveland, 32nd; Dayton, tied with Kansas City, Kan., and Macon, Ga., for 40th, and Cincinnati, tied with York, Pa., for 47th.

Ohio cities ranked in sulphur oxide pollution were Cleveland, tied with St. Louis for sixth; Youngstown, 17th; Toledo, 18th; Cincinnati, tied with Atlanta, Milwaukee, Newport News, Va., and Roanoke, Va., for 24th, and Columbus, tied with Flint, Mich., for 37th.

Kay Blasts Metzenbaum

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The American Independent party candidate for U.S. Senate, Richard B. Kay, has charged that funds in the primary election campaign of Howard Metzenbaum, his Democratic opponent, were improperly reported.

He filed a suit Monday in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court asking for a summary investigation of the primary campaign expenditures of Metzenbaum. He also filed a complaint with Secretary of State Ted Brown.

Kay, an attorney, said expenses totaling $3,000 had not been reported and other expenses of more than $31,000 had been reported in categories "not covered" by Ohio campaign law.

He said Metzenbaum campaign expense reports listed $14,000 spent for entertainment, more than $6,000 paid out for "petty cash" and $11,000 paid to individuals as expenses. He said Ohio law did not provide for any of the categories.

There was no immediate comment from Metzenbaum headquarters.

Traffic Is Banned At Certain Times

TOKYO (AP) — Traffic is going to be banned on Sundays and holidays from some of the busiest streets in the world because of the success of a Sunday experiment.

A huge crowd—estimated by police at 785,000—swarmed into the Ginza, Shinjuku, Ikebukuro and Asakusa as traffic was kept from the area for staggered periods of five to 11 hours between 10 a.m. and 9 p.m. Sunday.

Officials said this cut air and noise pollution sharply—the purpose of the experiment and the reason the traffic ban will continue.

Drainage Ditch Plans Accepted

County Commissioners Charles Morris and Wayne Hines accepted two sets of plans from the office of the Agricultural Stabilization Committee Monday concerning ditches in Pickaway County.

Plans for construction of an open drainage ditch in Monroe Twp., to be known as Call-French Ditch, and plans for the existing Bolen Group Ditch in Harrison Twp. were accepted and submitted to the county engineer for further study and report.

Payment of animal claims and witness fees totaling $157.55 was approved by the commissioners during the regular Monday session in addition to routine business conducted by the two commissioners present.

Commissioner Tootle is absent on vacation.

State Patrol Reports July Post Activities

July upheld the increase in activity seen on the highways during the summer by the local State Highway Patrol.

In serving Franklin and Pickaway Counties, patrolmen of the Circleville post made 673 arrests. Of these 27, an increase of 14 over June, were charged with driving while intoxicated.

Two persons were killed in one fatal accident under the post's jurisdiction. In all, 70 accidents were investigated, 26 of which involved injuries to 39 persons. There were fewer accidents of their report for July but more injuries.

Motor vehicles stopped for highway safety inspection numbered 804 with 119 of these passing. The other 605 received warning slips to have the defective parts repaired.

Patrolmen assisted 555 motorists in distress on the highways last month and investigated 20 case reports, involving such things as assault or car theft.

$2000 Bond Holds Two Local Men In Grand Jury Trial

In Municipal Court action Tuesday morning, acting judge Allan Berger bound two Circleville men over to the September session of the grand jury on breaking and entering charges.

Paul Kuhn and James M. Hart, both of Circleville, pled guilty to the breaking and entering of the Peppermint Lounge July 17 in which 12 bottles of beer valued at $420 were stolen. Berger set bond at $2,000.

In other action, Steven R. Thomas, 18, was found guilty of speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile per hour zone and was fined $10 plus court costs.

Leonard R. Mumaw, 24, 1165 Hedges St., Ashville was fined $25 plus costs for operation of an unsafe vehicle.

Robert F. Dawson, Route 1, Ashville, was fined $20 plus court costs for failing to yield the right of way.

Child Injured By Runaway Car

A freak auto mishap at 12:01 p.m. Monday resulted in injury to a one-year-old Circleville girl.

Michele Nicole Laveck was treated at Berger Hospital for abrasions of the leg when a car belonging to her mother, Barbara L. Laveck, 25, 532 E. Mount St., accidentally ran over her.

Mrs. Laveck had stopped to deposit three passengers on John St. when her daughter tumbled from the car into the street.

The mother, evidently believing the car was in neutral, got out of the auto to get the child.

The vehicle moved forward over the girl's leg, struck a gas meter and came to rest against the corner of a garage.

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Charles Dolby investigated the mishap.

Think Soviets Learned Little From U.S. Poseidon Test

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Navy officials feel they prevented a Soviet spy ship from obtaining vital information about the first submarine firing of a Poseidon missile, even though the Russian vessel made a daring dash that almost resulted in collision at sea.

"We don't know for sure what they were after but they sure didn't get much," a Navy spokesman said.

The incident occurred Monday when the nuclear sub James Madison launched the Poseidon while submerged in the Atlantic 30 miles east of Cape Kennedy.

The Soviet trawler Laptev was kept 3,000 yards from the sub by the U.S. destroyer escort Calcaterra until the Poseidon darted to the surface.

Twenty minutes later, the Laptev suddenly cut in front of the destroyer and raced full speed toward the bow of a support ship, the USS Observation Island.

The support ship's commanding officer, Capt. William C. Dotson, twice sounded a warning signal and ordered his engines reversed. The ship stopped dead as the Laptev zipped across the bow.

The Russians were after 10 cushion-sized pieces of a plastic membrane that had covered the launching tube in the deck of the Madison to prevent water from flowing in before the missile was fired.

Although the Soviet crewmen tossed out nets and used grappling hooks, American sailors in a whale boat quickly salvaged all 10 pieces.

The Navy said the segments were not classified and did not know why the Russians were so eager to get them.

Auto Leasing Draws Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The big three automakers have acknowledged that for many years they have provided luxury cars to government leaders at highly reduced lease rates.

Ford spokesman George Trainor termed the practice "a very straightforward business deal to get personalities behind the wheel of our cars."

In Congress, committee chairmen said the practice has been in effect for years and they saw nothing wrong with it, even though some of the leaseholders have occasion to deal with legislation affecting the auto industry.

Trainor said his company has made new Lincoln Continentals available to key members of Congress and their federal officials for $750 a year. The same car would cost the average customer about $3,500 for a year's lease.

At Detroit, a spokesman for General Motors said it currently is leasing 33 Cadillacs at $1,000 annually and eight smaller cars at $100 to government figures.

Five Injured In 2-Car Crash

Five persons were injured in a two-car crash early Monday morning on Route 23 which was investigated by the Highway Patrol.

Driver of one of the vehicles, Earl McCollister, 49, of Chillicothe, suffered cuts to his mouth and arm injuries when another auto driven by a Grafton man made a left turn in front of him just before 8 a.m. yesterday.

Thomas Lawrence, 36, of Grafton was cited for failing to yield causing the accident. Four passengers in his auto, all youths 14 to 19 years of age, received numerous small injuries and three were unhurt.

The Lawrence vehicle was one of several in a caravan headed toward a revival meeting in Kentucky. They were turning into a rest area off the highway in a construction zone.

Cambodian commanders in the Siem Reap-Angkor area, at the other end of Cambodia from Vietnam, reported last weekend that U.S. and Thai planes from Thailand were hitting the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in that area.

American a'r attacks in support of Cambodian forces also were reported at Skoun, an important road junction 40 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, and at Kompong Thom, the largest town in central Cambodia 80 miles north of Phnom Penh.

The Cambodian military spokesman in Phnom Penh reported today that government troops after three days of heavy street fighting had driven a large Communist force out of Kompong Thom. But he reversed a previous announcement that Skoun had been retaken and said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese continued to hold that town.

Surviving are her husband, Elmer Cooper; five sons, William Sark, Neil Sark and Homer Sark Jr., all of Circleville; Max Sark, Springfield and Sam Sark, Huntington Beach, Calif.; three daughters, Mrs. William (Donna) Harris, Springfield; Mrs. Charles (Betty) Thomas, Circleville; Mrs. Jean Weimann, Columbus; 28 grandchildren; 6 great-grandchildren; two brothers, Robert Dennis, Ashville and George Dennis, Route 1, Amanda; one sister, Mrs. Helen Kuhlwein, Route 1, Lockbourne.

Services will be 10:30 a.m. Thursday at Deffenbaugh Funeral Home with Rev. John DeMint officiating. Burial will be in Waterloo Cemetery in Madison County.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Make Appeal For Welfare Reform Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a crucial appeal for President Nixon's welfare reform plan, Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson vowed to the Senate Finance Committee today that the measure would "motivate people to work."

The panel poses a serious stumbling block to the House-passed legislation, with chances for approval thought to hinge on Republican members who have, so far, split with the White House.

Some GOP critics view the plan, such as one feature which would provide a minimum income of $1,600 plus $860 worth of food stamps to a family of four, as a massive giveaway encouraging persons to join the welfare rolls.

But Hodgson time and again stressed that the goal was to "help make people financially independent."

"The Family Assistance Plan," he insisted, "is not... a guaranteed income plan or a negative income tax."

"It is, instead, a complementary array of work incentives, work requirements, training and employment opportunities, child care to enable mothers to work," as well as income allowances.

Cereal Makers Defend Products As Nutritious

WASHINGTON (AP) — The dry-cereal industry defended its product before a Senate subcommittee today and said an earlier witness who testified cereals have almost no nutritional value didn't know what he was talking about.

"Breakfast cereals are good foods," declared Dr. Frederick J. Stare, a Harvard nutrition professor and syndicated newspaper columnist who testified on behalf of Kellogg Co. and National Biscuit Co.

"A breakfast of cereal and milk," said Stare, "any kind of milk, along with some fruit, a couple of pieces of toast, some polyunsaturated margarine, a little jelly or jam, is just as nutritious as a bacon-and-egg breakfast with fruit, toast and something to put on the toast."

Stare, one of four industry witnesses to appear before the Senate consumer subcommittee, said in prepared testimony that he had been shocked to read of a report given the panel last week by Robert Choate, a Washington citizen lobbyist who has spent the past three years studying national food policy.

Choate said most cereals on the market offered only empty calories and presented a chart ranking 60 dry cereals. He said his studies showed only the top nine "nutritionally meritorious." The remainder—including such old standbys as Wheaties, Cheerios and top brands of shredded wheat—he ranked least beneficial, most costly and most heavily advertised on children's television.

Stare called Choate's chart meaningless and presented one of his own which he also promptly labeled meaningless. He urged the subcommittee chaired by Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, to disregard it, too.

"It is meaningless," Stare said of Choate's chart, "because it ignores the way 95 per cent of breakfast cereals are consumed, that is, with milk. It is meaningless because it ignores a basic contribution of any cereal, energy value or calories. It is meaningless because it ignores the concept of the protein quality of the combination of cereal and milk, which is the way breakfast cereals are consumed."

Stare and J. P. MacFarland, chairman of the board of General Mills, Inc., took issue with Choate's charges that the industry, through massive advertising of low-nutritional products, is educating American children away from nutrition.

"Historically, our efforts have been designed to persuade consumers to eat a nourishing breakfast including cereals," said MacFarland.

"Cereals," he said, "were never intended to be, nor are they promoted as, a 'complete meal.'"

Drainage Ditch Plans Accepted

County Commissioners Charles Morris and Wayne Hines accepted two sets of plans from the office of the Agricultural Stabilization Committee Monday concerning ditches in Pickaway County.

Plans for construction of an open drainage ditch in Monroe Twp., to be known as Call-French Ditch, and plans for the existing Bulen Group Ditch in Harrison Twp. were accepted and submitted to the county engineer for further study and report.

Payment of animal claims and witness fees totaling $157.55 was approved by the commissioners during the regular Monday session in addition to routine business conducted by the two commissioners present.

Commissioner Tootle is absent on vacation.

Steubenville

federal standards have been set. Jefferson County and the City of Steubenville are working on plans for a joint pollution control program which is expected to go into effect soon, De Luca said.

He said the city now has 39 test sites for monitoring the air in the city and county and in Brooke and Hancock counties in West Virginia.

Other Ohio cities ranked in particulate pollution were Youngstown, ranked 22nd; Cleveland, 32nd; Dayton, tied with Kansas City, Kan., and Macon, Ga., for 40th; Cincinnati, tied with York, Pa., for 47th.

Ohio cities ranked in sulphur oxide pollution were Cleveland, tied with St. Louis for sixth; Youngstown, 17th; Toledo, 18th; Cincinnati, tied with Atlanta, Milwaukee, Newport News, Va., and Roanoke, Va., for 24th, and Columbus, tied with Flint, Mich., for 37th.

Kay Blasts Metzenbaum

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The American Independent party candidate for U.S. Senate, Richard B. Kay, has charged that funds in the primary election campaign of Howard Metzenbaum, his Democratic opponent, were improperly reported.

He filed a suit Monday in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court asking for a summary investigation of the primary campaign expenditures of Metzenbaum. He also filed a complaint with Secretary of State Ted Brown.

Kay, an attorney, said expenses totaling $3,000 had not been reported and other expenses of more than $31,000 had been reported in categories "not covered" by Ohio campaign law.

He said Metzenbaum campaign expense reports listed $14,000 spent for entertainment, more than $6,000 paid out as "petty cash" and $11,000 paid to individuals as expenses. He said Ohio law did not provide for any of the categories.

There was no immediate comment from Metzenbaum headquarters.

Traffic Is Banned At Certain Times

TOKYO (AP) — Traffic is going to be banned on Sundays and holidays from some of the busiest streets in the world because of the success of a Sunday experiment.

A huge crowd—estimated by police at 785,000—swarmed into the Ginza, Shinjuku, Ikebukuro and Asakusa as traffic was kept from the area for staggered periods of five to 11 hours between 10 a.m. and 9 p.m. Sunday.

Officials said this cut air and noise pollution sharply—the purpose of the experiment and the reason the traffic ban will continue.

Think Soviets Learned Little From U.S. Poseidon Test

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Navy officials feel they prevented a Soviet spy ship from obtaining vital information about the first submarine firing of a Poseidon missile, even though the Russian vessel made a daring dash that almost resulted in collision at sea.

"We don't know for sure what they were after but they sure didn't get much," a Navy spokesman said.

The incident occurred Monday when the nuclear sub James Madison launched the Poseidon while submerged in the Atlantic 30 miles east of Cape Kennedy. The Soviet trawler Laptev was kept 3,000 yards from the sub by the U.S. destroyer escort

Calcuterra until the Poseidon darted to the surface.

Twenty minutes later, the Laptev suddenly cut in front of the destroyer and raced full speed toward the bow of a sup port ship, the USS Observation Island.

The support ship's commanding officer, Capt. William C. Dotson, twice sounded a warning signal and ordered his engines reversed. The ship stopped dead as the Laptev zipped across the bow.

The Russians were after 10 cushion-sized pieces of a plastic membrane that had covered the launching tube in the deck of the Madison to prevent water from flowing in before the missile was fired.

Although the Soviet crewmen tossed out nets and used grappling hooks, American sailors in a whale boat quickly salvaged all 10 pieces.

The Navy said the segments were not classified and did not know why the Russians were so eager to get them.

Parents Say Body Son's

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Police say Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Willis are certain a dead child found along railroad tracks on Columbus' near east side is their 11-month-old son, Eric, who was kidnapped from his home July 25.

The parents positively identified the blanket in which the dead child was found as the one their son was sleeping under the night he was taken, according to Police Sgt. James R. Carr.

Positive identification of the body is impossible because of its badly decomposed state.

There has been no official ruling on the cause of death, but police said the child's skull was cracked.

Carr said police are working on some solid leads in the case, adding that the parents have been ruled out as suspects.

Jarring Schedules Meeting With Mideast Delegations

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring scheduled his first talks with Arab and Israeli representatives in New York today on the U.S. peace proposal for the Middle East.

Libyan leader Muammar Kaddafi was in Baghdad trying to smooth out differences between Egypt, which accepted the plan, and Iraq, which denounced it. A strategy conference of Arab defense and foreign ministers was postponed, awaiting the outcome of Kaddafi's peacemaking.

In Tel Aviv, the right-wing Gahal party voted Monday night to quit Premier Golda Meir's coalition government in protest of Israel's acceptance of the plan. The walkout was not expected to affect Israeli policy since the other coalition parties still control 72 of the 120 seats in Israel's parliament.

Jarring, who returned to New York Sunday to resume mediation between the Arabs and Israelis, arranged separate meetings today with chief U.N. delegates—Abdullah El-Erian of Egypt, Muhammad El-Farra of Jordan and Yosef Tekoah of Israel. He also planned to meet with the U.N. ambassadors from the Big Four nations—the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union—who have been trying for months to agree on a peace formula for the Middle East.

The meetings with the Arab and Israeli diplomats were considered preliminaries. Talks to set up the 90-day cease-fire proposed by the United States are not expected to start until Israel follows up its announcement of acceptance of the U.S. plan with an official statement setting forth its reservations and conditions, as Egypt and Jordan have done.

Jarring met Monday afternoon with U.N. Secretary-General U Thant and Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who presented the American proposal to Jordan, Israel and Egypt on June 19.

Thant said the meeting was "very useful and constructive" and that "all aspects of the U.S. proposal, including replies received by the U.S. government," were discussed. Rogers said it was a "very useful meeting... about the steps that may be taken in the future."

Metzenbaum OKs Limit On Outlay For Campaign

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Democratic U.S. Senate candidate Howard M. Metzenbaum has agreed to a proposal by his Republican opponent U.S. Rep. Robert Taft Jr. that they restrict their campaign spending for broadcast time.

Taft called for the restriction Monday in a news conference and, Metzenbaum agreed in a later news conference.

Taft proposed spending seven cents for each Ohio voter who cast a ballot in the last general election. This would be a total of a $262,018.12. Metzenbaum agreed and also suggested that the accounting firm of Price Waterhouse Co. be retained to monitor the spending.

The seven-cent limit is contained in a bill pending in Congress, but Taft said he did not believe the measure would become effective until the 1972 elections.

on a peace formula for the Middle East.

The meetings with the Arab and Israeli diplomats were considered preliminaries. Talks to set up the 90-day cease-fire proposed by the United States are not expected to start until Israel follows up its announcement of acceptance of the U.S. plan with an official statement setting forth its reservations and conditions, as Egypt and Jordan have done.

Jarring met Monday afternoon with U.N. Secretary-General U Thant and Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who presented the American proposal to Jordan, Israel and Egypt on June 19.

Thant said the meeting was "very useful and constructive" and that "all aspects of the U.S. proposal, including replies received by the U.S. government," were discussed. Rogers said it was a "very useful meeting... about the steps that may be taken in the future."

Parents Say Body Son's

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Police say Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Willis are certain a dead child found along railroad tracks on Columbus' near east side is their 11-month-old son, Eric, who was kidnaped from his home July 25.

The parents positively identified the blanket in which the dead child was found as the one their son was sleeping under the night he was taken, according to Police Sgt. James R. Carr.

Positive identification of the body is impossible because of its badly decomposed state.

There has been no official ruling on the cause of death, but police said the child's skull was cracked.

Carr said police are working on some solid leads in the case, adding that the parents have been ruled out as suspects.

Metzenbaum OKs Limit On Outlay For Campaign

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Democratic U.S. Senate candidate Howard M. Metzenbaum has agreed to a proposal by his Republican opponent U.S. Rep. Robert Taft Jr. that they restrict their campaign spending for broadcast time.

Taft called for the restriction Monday in a news conference and Metzenbaum agreed in a later news conference.

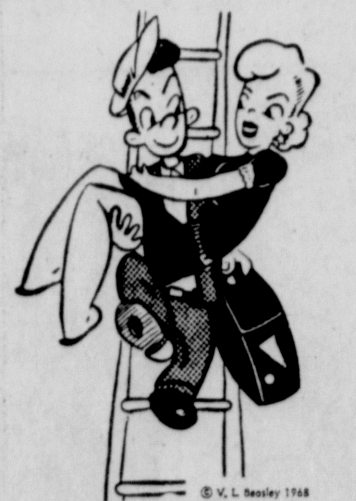

Taft proposed spending seven cents for each Ohio voter who cast a ballot in the last general election. This would be a total of a $262,018.12. Metzenbaum agreed and also suggested that the accounting firm of Price Waterhouse Co. be retained to monitor the spending.

The seven-cent limit is contained in a bill pending in Congress, but Taft said he did not believe the measure would become effective until the 1972 elections.

Peace Isn't Cheap

Notwithstanding sporadic talk of disarmament nobody seriously expects it any time soon.

Even the thought of sharply reduced arms spending in the foreseeable future is enough to send premonitory shivers up and down the spines of a lot of business people.

The United States has been a garrison state for so long that the prospect of total peace is often viewed with mixed emotions.

But the world is becoming so complicated it's beginning to appear now that disarmament itself could be rather costly. A panel of experts once estimated the American contribution to international disarmament inspection costs might rise to $7 billion a year. Inflation could boost that enormously.

Of course, such expenditures wouldn't approach present total defense outlays of more than $10 billion a year. But they wouldn't be chicken feed.

Lo, The Poor Indian

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Lo, the poor Indian. He's in mortal danger of being done in by the New York rich, who have developed a certain expertise in harming causes by slobbering over them in the most ridiculous way.

Last year, with the New York Southamptons (Long Island) second generation of wealth, the cause was California's Cesar Chavez, who was organizing the grape pickers of the San Joaquin valley by means of a boycott. The "radical chic" Park Avenueers, who think it perfectly all right for a labor leader to shanghai people into a union by compulsion, got behind the Chavez boycott of the retail stores that sell San Joaquin grapes, thus abetting a movement that had no sanction in the public opinion of anybody save a few union organizers who are unwilling to let workers decide their affiliation for themselves. The boycott has succeeded, for most of the growers have recently signed with the union.

This year it's the Indians. In Southamptons the devotees of radical chic, held a party the other day to raise all of $3,000 for the Indian cause. The same fashionable Leftism that had successfully patronized Cesar Chavez and the Black Panthers (witness Tom Wolfe's now famous article on the Panthers' party at Leonard Bernstein's) is now trying to apologize to the Red Man from stealing Manhattan Island from him for twenty-four bucks (and, as some historians insist, a bottle of rye).

The only difference this time is that the devotees of radical chic are bringing up the rear. It so happens that the Indians, unlike Cesar Chavez's strong arm boys and the Black Panthers, have a legitimate cause. The White Man had treaties with the Red Man, most of which were honored in the breach. The Left, which has been so zealous for causes that can be turned into potential riches at the polls, went for years without giving the Red Man a tumble. Republican Barry Goldwater an Arizonan who knows something about Indians, was just about the only person in the country to make the point that minorities deserved fair treatment even when they were too small to tip the scales in election year.

The Goldwater point was not lost on Richard Nixon, who took a dynamic westerner, Robert Robertson, from the staff of Governor Laxalt of Nevada and made him the acting executive director of the National Council on Indian Opportunity. He also instructed Leonard Garment, White House counselor on minorities, to enlist his energies on behalf of the Indians. Since there are probably only a million persons of Indian descent in the whole United States, as compared to twenty-six million blacks, the Administration's will to help the Indian has no connection whatsoever with the 1970 or 1972 elections. You can credit the Nixon emphasis on a fair deal for the Red Man "self-determination without forced termination of reservation status" to pure sincerity of conviction, an unusual thing in any political Administration.

Previous Administrations have let the Indian down badly. In the Fifties a Congressional resolution declared that termination of the reservation system was the long-range goal of U.S. Indian policies. The tax-exempt status of the Indian lands was eventually to be removed, and Federal responsibility for Indian well-being was to be repudiated. There would be no more tribes; the Indians were to be dispersed among the population as individuals. The idea of promoting individual responsibility for all citizens is not inherently bad, but it did not reckon with the Indian's desire to preserve his own cultural identity. There happens to be a movement everywhere among the Indians to revive tribal culture. The Six Nations of New York State, led by the Senecas, want to reconstitute the old Iroquois confederacy. The Passamaquoddy and Penobscot Indians of Maine are now resisting efforts to deprive them of the protection of treaties going back to colonial times.

So it was "conservative chic" when Vice President Agnew dispatched his 14-year-old daughter Kim to New Mexico to take part in a celebration of the return of 48,000 acres of sacred land to the Taos Pueblo Indians. (The 48,000 acres had been illegally taken from the Indians and merged into Kit Carson National Park.) Kim Agnew's party had to endure an eleven-hour horseback ride to Blue Lake in the Sangre de Cristo Mountains to deliver a "cane of friendship" from President Nixon, and Robert Robertson, the National Council on Indian Opportunity leader, was bucked off a horse during the momentous ride. But the group carried the silver-headed cane, symbol of the restoration of the 48,000 acres, to the Taos Pueblo Governor, Querino Romero.

It is not recorded that "radical chic" in Southamptons has made any effort to applaud the efforts of "conservative chic" to help the Indian. "Radical chic" couldn't for a moment admit that Richard Nixon and Spiro Agnew had gone there as an effective first in a good cause. But there it is. The difference between Southamptons and Washington is that "conservative chic" knows how to discriminate when it comes to good works.

Laff-A-Day

"Can we just BUY one, or do we have to adopt it?"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE WORLD'S greatest pessimist is apparently a proof reader in Kentucky, for this is the way the weather forecast read in a recent edition of his newspaper: "There is less than a five per cent chance of tonight and tomorrow."

A feud between a certain newspaper editor in a town in Indiana, and a prominent doctor in the same backwoods became so heated that the editor was forbidden by the courts to so much as mention the doctor's name in his paper henceforth. The editor found an opportunity, however, to sink the harpoon in the doctor's hide by printing the following note on the front page one morning: "Joe Kimball, our distinguished fire chief, enters our town's only hospital tomorrow for a routine check-up. He will leave a wife and seven children."

OVERHEARD: In a hospital corridor: "She gets her looks from her father. He's a plastic surgeon." At a midtown bar: Patron: "What I want is something that's big, cold, and full of gin." Man next to him: "Apologize at once, you scoundrel. You're talking about the woman I love." Chemistry professor: "Forbush, what can you tell me about nitrates?" Student Forbush: "They're considerably cheaper than day rates."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

It seems that my 8-year-old son bleeds more heavily than our other children when he cuts himself. What tests can be made to find out if he has a blood deficiency?

Mrs. T.G., Oregon
Dear Mrs. G.: The chances are most unlikely that your observation means that your boy has any unusual blood condition. Yet that observation is sufficiently important to be pursued, if only to relieve you of concern.

A complete blood count can, within a few minutes, show if the number of red blood cells and white blood cells are within the normal range.

Special cells called the platelets are of particular importance in the process of blood coagulation. A marked decrease in the number of these cells may suggest a bleeding tendency.

A few tests are made to determine normal coagulation and bleeding time. Another test for prothrombin time gives evidence of the person's ability to coagulate blood.

If any of these tests show abnormalities there are many other highly technical studies performed by hematologists, or specialists in the study of blood. These tests can pinpoint more difficult disturbances of blood coagulation.

Today's technology has advanced to the point where even the most unusual deficiencies of coagulation can be replaced.

We are a family of campers and small cuts and bruises are constantly happening to all of us. When is an injection for tetanus considered necessary?

Mr. S.C.F., California
Dear Mr. F.: Almost all children are given the advantage of immunization against tetanus at an early age. To deprive them of the protection of this and other vaccines is medically unsound. That initial injection does not confer immunity for life. Booster shots at regular intervals that depend on the judgment of your physician will give your children the constant protection they need.

Adults, too, can be protected against tetanus. If this immunity is kept up, there is no need for concern. A complete record should be kept of the time of immunization and of any unusual side reactions that may have occurred.

If a massive injury occurs, one that needs hospitalization or treatment by a doctor, the decision will be made for you about the need for a tetanus injection. For the usual minor cut or injury there is generally no need for this. Wounds caused by rusty nails that have been in the ground or in contaminated soil should be cleaned thoroughly with soap and water and reported to the doctor.

Fever is one of the best body mechanisms. Don't be too alarmed by it.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Wednesday, Aug. 5, the 217th day of 1970. There are 148 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1963, the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain agreed that they would not carry out nuclear tests in the atmosphere, in space or under water.

On this date: In 1858, the first transatlantic cable was completed.

In 1861, the U.S. government levied its first income tax.

In 1884, the cornerstone of the Statue of Liberty was laid.

In 1914, at the beginning of World War I, Austria-Hungary declared war on Russia.

In 1949, some 6,000 persons were killed in an earthquake in Ecuador.

In 1953, the U.N. Command in Korea began an exchange of prisoners with North Korea and Communist China.

Ten years ago: The United Nations called off plans to send troops to keep peace in the Congo's Katanga Province.

Five years ago: There was a government crisis in Greece after the ouster of Premier Andreas Papandreu.

One year ago: Three American prisoners of war arrived by plane in Laos after being freed by North Vietnam.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — In the mid-1960s one of the most earnestly examined if not most popular topics of executive speeches was the alleged interference of government in the affairs of business.

Some businessmen considered government their greatest threat. Business would see to prosperity, they felt, but it could not do so if it continued to be encumbered by Washington.

It wasn't only testy arch-conservatives who complained. Liberal businessmen joined the chorus, convinced that the existing prosperity—it was at a level not dreamed about 30 years earlier—was threatened by bureaucrats.

Even Henry Ford, who tried to destroy the myth that government and business were natural enemies, complained:

"I think you would all agree that government involvement in business has been expanding more rapidly in recent years than at any time since the 1930s."

There were reasons for government involvement, of course. The chimneys of production were polluting the air. The abundance of products had abundant safety problems attached. The cities were decaying in the midst of wealth.

Business hadn't handled these problems satisfactorily and, it was suspected, probably couldn't handle them alone. The issues appeared even to the most reluctant to be the mutual concern of business and government. But a partnership of any sort with government was feared by some businessmen.

Government activity, they averred, meant stiff regulations and maybe even competition from government agencies. It meant involvement in their affairs by government officials who did not understand the profit system.

That was in the 1960s. Now, judging from recent events, that fear appears to have diminished, at least among those segments of business which need government assistance.

The feeling for protection against foreign imports is growing. The textile industry has won administration backing for quotas. And the shoe industry could very well convince lawmakers that it too needs help.

The New York Stock Exchange has suggested to the federal government that it help assure the public of payment in the event of brokerage house collapses by extending a $1-billion line of credit to a trust fund.

The Pennsylvania Transportation Co. attempted to obtain a huge federal loan to give it time to work out pressing financial problems. And the Association of American Railroads suggested the lines might need subsidies of $1 billion.

A bill is now in Congress, per haps with strong support, that provides for the U.S. Treasury to make loans of government money to sound companies which cannot obtain credit because of tight credit conditions.

The housing industry is attempting to solve its financing problems by the establishment of federal programs to rechannel funds.

Has the tide of opinion really changed? Is this the spirit of cooperation that enlightened businessmen had hoped for? Or are circumstances dictating these recent actions of business? The most likely answers are "no," to the first two questions, and "yes," to the third.

The nature of the dilemma is described by John Randolph, president of the United States

Savings and Loan League, in a speech last week at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

The proliferation of federal mortgage programs, new secondary market facilities, and Government National Mortgage Association activities, he said, has led to fears of "federalization."

"There is real concern in the hearts and minds of many sav- ings and loan people about the road down which we seem to be travelling," he said. "On the other hand, there is also a substantial amount of sentiment...that this road is inescapable and the future development of our institutions require that we travel further down this road in the future than we have in the past."

WASHINGTON MEMO

By Congressman CHALMERS P. WYLIE
15th District of Ohio

Congressional business drawing the most attention was the debate in the House on the Congressional Reorganization Bill.

During the week an amendment was adopted to make public a Member's position on a teller vote. Present practice has been referred to as a secret teller vote but it really is not secret because the Members march up the aisle in plain view of the persons sitting in the public and press galleries. The practice of not recording teller votes is a carry-over from early English parliamentary procedure designed to protect members of parliament who expressed themselves against the policies of the Throne. No transcripts of debates, discussion of issues or votes were available to the public during those trying times. The "secret teller vote" is an anachronism, the repeal of which I supported.

Other amendments to the bill were approved during the week but none received the attention the teller vote amendment got.

The most far-reaching legislation enacted by Congress to control crime became law when President Nixon signed the so-called D. C. Crime Bill. We discussed this bill at some length in this report on two previous occasions. The President, in signing the bill, referred to it as an unprecedented and very strong measure needed to combat crime in the Nation's Capital which was fast becoming the crime capital of the world.

A bill to amend the Mental Retardation Facilities and Community Mental Health Centers Construction Act of 1963 was passed by the House on Thursday.

I spoke in favor of the bill as necessary to improve the facilities and treatment of the approximately six million mentally retarded persons in the United States. Its provisions are designed to insure the continuation of the outstanding program commenced at Ohio State University.

I was pleased to be invited to testify before the Committee on the Judiciary on a bill which I co-sponsored, designed to deter and punish those who engage in the illegal use of explosives.

The alarming increase in the use of bombs as weapons of terror, intimidation, destruction and death is a threat to social decorum and innocent law-abiding citizens that this society can no longer tolerate.

I recently received in formation from the F.B.I. dealing with student agitation. During the 1968-69 school year, there were 61 instances of arson and/or bombings attributed to the street revolutionaries of the student left.

People are demanding action by Congress to cope with violence and terrorism. Passage of a bill similar to this one could be an additional armament in the arsenal of defense against racial extremists and political fanatics who threaten the very underpinnings of our society.

On Wednesday, the House adopted the compromise reached by the House and Senate conferees on the Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Appropriation Bill. The conference report provides a budget for fiscal year 1971 of over $18 billion, a figure about $650 million more than the President's request.

The increases in funds earmarked for the Housing and Urban Development Urban Renewal Program ($1.35 billion) and the Department's small-town water and sewer facilities program ($500 million). Water will be turned on for the first time in Urbancrest on Saturday, as the result of a federal grant made possible by legislation which this implements. I drafted legislation which allows communities such as Urbancrest to receive water and sewer grants with 90 per cent federal money. Urbancrest was the first village in the United States to receive such a grant and will be the first to have a public water facility as the result of such a grant.

The Veterans' Administration was allotted an extra $80 million to improve medical care for wounded Vietnam veterans by another section of the bill.

Appropriations for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration were reduced to $3.2 billion, about $100 million less than the budget request.

On Tuesday, by a voice vote, the House passed an emergency joint resolution to provide temporary financing for government agencies until Oct. 15.

To date, the House has passed 17 appropriations bills for fiscal year 1971 which began on July 1. Since many of these bills have been bogged down in the Senate, only five have become law. This is the second time since the fiscal year began that such emergency funding has been required.

Restrictive Trade Bill Under Attack

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A restrictive trade bill now before Congress would bring a general rise in consumer prices by cutting off foreign competition, according to Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's special assistant for consumer affairs.

"When we say 'no' to foreign imports we are penalized by reduced competition and we pay more for shoes, more for watches, more for the necessities of life," she told the American Institute of Cooperatives meeting here Monday.

Let's Tour Ohio

1800 Tavern Is Attraction Of Gallipolis Tour Area

Editor's NOTE: This is one of a series of short tours of Ohio travel attractions prepared by Columbus Auto Club Travel Department for The Herald.

Southern Ohio is noted for scenic beauty, especially in the fall, but it also has historic and other sights which add to the interest and enjoyment of a tour of the area at anytime.

Our House at Gallipolis is probably the best known attraction. This is an authentic restoration, recently completed, of an inn and tavern which was the center of community life in the early 1800's.

Now administered by the Ohio Historical Society, it was built by Henry Cushing and offers public tours of its taproom including a bar, a ballroom, other public rooms, and, in a separate building, a kitchen. Rooms are candlelit and there may be fires in the fireplaces. Hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. except Monday. Admission charge.

The Ohio River was important to early development of the area and outstanding scenic views can be had on a drive on Route 7 and Route 52 to Portsmouth. Just south of Gallipolis is one of the largest roller dams ever built.

The area also offers excellent festival entertainment. At Portsmouth, the River Days celebration, Sept. 2-7, features championship boat races on the Ohio, a carnival, parades and other activity. At Jackson, the Apple Festival, Sept. 16-19, draws thousands for activities keyed to a main crop of the area.

East of Jackson, the Buckeye Furnace Memorial, one of the last of the 19th century charcoal iron ore plants, is almost completely refurbished. The charging house, charcoal shed and casting house are finished, while the ironmaster's house is under reconstruction. Open during daylight hours; no charge.

One of the only three Federal recreation areas in Ohio is Lake Vesuvius, north of Ironton off Route 93. The 143-acre lake provides a swimming beach and boating, while the 20-acre surrounding area has good picnic, hiking and camping facilities. There also is a restored iron ore furnace.

The AA club suggests this routing to the tour area: From Circleville go south on Route 23 to Junction with Route 35; southeast on Route 35 to the tour area.

Violence In Kansas Part And Parcel Of Larger Woes

EDITOR'S NOTE—Lawrence, Kan., would seem to be the least likely place for terror and death. It is a university town situated in the heartland of America. Now it is wracked by violence, and its story may be the story of the tensions besetting much of the United States. Ken Hartnett of the AP Special Assignments Team visited Lawrence for the following in-depth report.

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Writer

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — "Two years ago," said a raw-boned young Kansan—his long brown hair fastened in a pony tail—"this town was really beautiful. It was mellow. There were no hassles.

"If your thing was smoking dope on the street, you could do it and no one would bother you."

"Our philosophy has been," said City Manager Buford M. Watson Jr., "that the least enforcement is the best enforcement."

Now the atmosphere of live and let live is seriously threatened in Lawrence—this once serene university town of 45,000 tucked away in the lush farmlands of northeastern Kansas.

The long, dry summer has brought terror and violent death.

Here, on a small scale, are all the angers and agonies of the larger society. Though smaller in size than the problems that grip a Chicago or a New York, those wracking Lawrence are no less tragic.

In Lawrence these days they're talking about guns—the guns in the hands of the angry young blacks, the guns in the hands of the police, the guns in the hands of would-be night riders and young white radicals.

And they're wondering whether peace will ever come again.

"This has been said before but we've got some difficult days ahead," said one city official. "I've just got my fingers crossed."

Blacks in Lawrence for more than a century had been outwardly respectful, silent and mostly poor. Now many are not only speaking out, they are quoting Huey P. Newton, Black Panther leader.

Radical whites once were interested mostly in the marijuana which grows wild in the Kansas countryside. Now they are ridiculing and at times openly attacking the stable and sober Kansas society.

Now people are remembering that the land of Eisenhower and Amelia Earhart and the Wizard of Oz was once known to the nation as "bloody Kansas," before the outbreak of the Civil War.

Since July 16, two persons—one a 19-year-old black militant; the other, a white University of Kansas student from the exclusive Kansas City suburb of Leawood—have been killed by gunfire.

At least three others, including a police lieutenant, have been wounded.

Snipers and arsonists have been active. Arsonists tossed a fire bomb at a judge's home and snipers opened up with rifles on four white men standing outside the courthouse, including Dolph Simons Jr., publisher of The Lawrence Daily Journal-World. All four escaped injury.

The violence, unsettled enough in itself, is even more unnerving because it has broken loose outside of any set of articulated political demands—either negotiable or otherwise.

Nothing is on the bargaining table.

"It seems to me that it's just violence for violence's sake," said County Attorney Dan Young, a Rockefeller republican vilified on the far left as a racist and attacked on the far right for being too soft on blacks and white dissenters.

So far, the normal political processes have brought no solution.

"We've got a group of guys here," said Publisher Simons, referring to the close-knit Lawrence Establishment. "Once they get behind something, usually they can get something done."

But, so far, the white leaders have been frustrated.

"Frankly, we're at a loss," said superintendent of Schools Carl Knox.

The talk on the extremes is tough talk indeed.

"I've got four children and I don't like killing," said a downtown merchant. "But if it's going to take some killing to get the job done, then I say let's get on with it."

As small as Lawrence is, its problems are as stubborn, if far more solvable, as those in larger communities.

Lawrence's 4,500 blacks represent 10 per cent of the population. In recent years they have become vocal about the lack of job opportunity (only one black holds a white collar job in City Hall, only 11 of 450 professional school personnel are black), poor housing, and treatment at the hands of the police.

"This is the most racist town I've ever been in," said Rod Bush, a black graduate student in psychology at The University. Said black Topeka Lawyer Charles Scott:

"It's the kind of racism that expresses itself in words like, 'I knew Jim all his life and I even paid for his burial.' They perhaps don't know the meaning of racism and perhaps that's the racist of the worst kind."

Scott is the lawyer for the father of Rick Dowdell, whose death in what police said was an exchange of gunfire with a pursuing officer touched off the current troubles.

An all-white coroner's jury exonerated the white officer involved and when a young black woman with Dowdell insisted on testifying only with Fifth Amendment immunity, she was not allowed to take the stand.

The coroner's inquest was not even a whitewash, sneered Leonard Harrison, the community's leading black militant. "It was more like a Klan wash."

Now the blacks, who contend Dowdell never fired at the policeman, are planning their own informal inquest.

The white and black impasse is not the only one confronting the community.

There is also the glaring cultural difference between the orthodox Kansas community and the white radicals, drawn to Lawrence in growing numbers by the seemingly endless supply of wild marijuana free for the picking in the fertile fields of rock-ribbed Republican Douglas County.

The radicals augment black strength by rising up in support when a racial crisis breaks out in racially mixed East Lawrence.

White radicals, for example, took to the streets near the university in confrontations with police within hours of Dowdell's shooting. It was during one of those confrontations that 19-year-old Harry "Nick" Rice of Leawood was killed.

One radical said Kansas itself breeds young white dissenters, especially when they arrive at the university.

"They come to the university, most of them from a small town culture that inherently racist and oppressive. His life style has been defined by that culture. Then he meets a black dude five times as smart as he is and a long hair who blows his mind because he's not a bum but a human being, who also may be five times smarter than he is.

"At that point, there goes everything out the window."

If there is any consensus among the town fathers, it is that marijuana is part and parcel of the radical problem and Leonard Harrison is the root because of black unrest.

Harrison, free on appeal bond after convicted in an extortion case in Wichita, was one of the first blacks to speak out loudly and sometimes rudely against the city's white establishment.

Both black and white agree that he has had a galvanizing effect on young blacks.

Harrison said he is not particularly interested at this point in helping the white establishment out of the present crisis. He said he warned the city fathers last April that police-community relations were deteriorating and they ignored him.

"I told them, 'You're going to kill somebody and when you do, you're going to make a martyr.'"

Now, said Harrison, "come what will, I'll just get out of the brothers' way and let the brothers deal."

Just where the turmoil will end, no one knows. Like many older whites in Lawrence, Waisner is puzzled over just what the blacks want. "They yell they want freedom. But freedom for what? They have more freedom here, especially on the East Side of town than anyone."

Before violence flared, Lawrence had already embarked on a number of social reforms. Two housing programs, one private, one public, would add 30 units to the low-income stock. An attempt is being made to add black sales and clerical personnel to the downtown stores.

Efforts are also being made to bring in industry that would afford more economic opportunity to a black community with a median income now about one-half the $10,000 white median.

The school system is trying to recruit more black personnel and improve the black cultural content in its curriculum. A $14,000 grant to the Police Department under the federal Safe Streets Act would finance a community relations program.

And the state is embarking on a pilot project to see if it can safely eradicate wild marijuana.

Black consciousness and black insistence on the right to define and control what is good for the black community appears to be in Lawrence to stay.

And so do the white radicals, who from small beginnings are building communes and collectives and articulating a point of view especially jarring to traditional Kansas.

Let's Tour Ohio

1800 Tavern Is Attraction Of Gallipolis Tour Area

Editor's NOTE: This is one of a series of short tours of Ohio travel attractions prepared by Columbus Auto Club Travel Department for The Herald.

Southern Ohio is noted for scenic beauty, especially in the fall, but it also has historic and other sights which add to the interest and enjoyment of a tour of the area at anytime.

Our House at Gallipolis is probably the best known attraction. This is an authentic restoration, recently completed, of an inn and tavern which was the center of community life in the early 1800's.

Now administered by the Ohio Historical Society, it was built by Henry Cushing and offers public tours of its taproom including a bar, a ballroom, other public rooms, and, in a separate building, a kitchen. Rooms are candlelit and there may be fires in the fireplaces. Hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. except Monday. Admission charge.

The Ohio River was important to early development of the area and outstanding scenic views can be had on a drive on Route 7 and Route 52 to Portsmouth. Just south of Gallipolis is one of the largest roller dams ever built.

The area also offers excellent festival entertainment. At Portsmouth, the River Days celebration, Sept. 27, features championship boat races on the Ohio, a carnival, parades and other activity. At Jackson, the Apple Festival, Sept. 16-19, draws thousands for activities keyed to a main crop of the area.

East of Jackson, the Buckeye Furnace Memorial, one of the last of the 19th century charcoal iron ore plants, is almost completely refurbished. The charging house, charcoal shed and casting house are finished, while the ironmaster's house is under reconstruction. Open during daylight hours; no charge.

One of the only three Federal recreation areas in Ohio is Lake Vesuvius, north of Ironton off Route 93. The 143-acre lake provides a swimming beach and boating, while the 20-acre surrounding area has good picnic, hiking and camping facilities. There also is a restored iron ore furnace.

The AA club suggests this routing to the tour area: From Circleville go south on Route 23 to Junction with Route 35; southeast on Route 35 to the tour area.

Miss Norma Butterbaugh Bride Of Jerry A. Gloyd

MR. AND MRS. JERRY ALLEN GLOYD

A double ring ceremony in the Fairview United Methodist Church on June 12 united in marriage Miss Norma Lee Butterbaugh and Mr. Jerry Allen Gloyd. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Butterbaugh, Route 1, Stoutsville and Mr. Gloyd is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar V. Gloyd, Route 2, Ashville. Rev. Homer Thompson Jr. and Rev. Charles Hemming officiated the 6:30 p.m. ceremony. Mrs. Lloyd P. Gallagher was organist and Mr. Homer Thompson Jr., vocalist.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in an A-line gown of white satin with an empire fitted lace bodice, long sleeves and a chapel length train trimmed in lace. Her shoulder length veil of silk illusion was caught to a cluster of rosebuds. The bride carried an arrangement of red and white rosebuds atop a white Bible. Mrs. J. O. Spangler, cousin of the bride, was the seamstress for the gown and veil designed by the bride.

Mrs. James Hartley, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Stanley Gloyd, sister-in-law of the bridegroom and Mrs. Don Butterbaugh, sister-in-law of the bride. Mrs. Hartley's gown was of heavenly blue satin with a lace bodice, empire waist and short sleeves. The bridesmaids were dressed as the matron of honor in a pale shade of blue. The attendants wore headpieces of satin bands and tulle matching their gowns. Each carried a bouquet of blue daisies and white rose buds.

Mr. Stanley Gloyd, brother of the bridegroom performed the duties of best man. Ushers were Mr. Edgar V. Gloyd Jr., Mr. Larry Gloyd, brothers of the bridegroom; Mr. Don Butterbaugh, brother of the bride and Mr. James Hartley, brother-in-law of the bride.

Miss Robin Sue Butterbaugh, niece of the bride, was flower girl wearing a dress styled as the attendants. Master Ronald Scott Butterbaugh, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer and Miss Shelly Gloyd, niece of the bridegroom, presided at the guest book.

Mrs. Butterbaugh selected for her daughter's wedding a navy blue lace dress with navy accessories. Mrs. Gloyd was attired in a light blue lace dress with white accessories. Both mothers wore red sweetheart rose corsages.

A reception was held in the social room of the church with the blue daisy and rosebud theme carried out in the decorations. Serving as hostesses were Mrs. Howard Huston, Mrs. Jo Ann Spangler, Mrs. Carl Azbell and Mrs. Edgar V. Gloyd Jr.

Following a wedding trip to Virginia Beach, the couple established residence on Ray Ave., Circleville. The new Mrs. Gloyd is associated with General Telephone Co. of Ohio. Mr. Gloyd is employed by United Parcel Service in Columbus.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Stoutsville, Circleville, Chillicothe, Columbus, Ashland, Amanda, Lancaster, Rockbridge, Logan and Portland, Ind.

Art League Members To Do Sketching

Members of the Circleville Art League who will be sketching at the Pickaway County Fair are Mrs. Stanley Burmaster, Mrs. Glen Yaple and Mrs. Richard Theis.

The display will be in the front room of the coliseum where the artists will work Monday through Thursday afternoons. Completed work will be offered for sale all during the day and evening every day by members of the league.

Lanman Family Holds Reunion

The Lanman Family Reunion was held Sunday at the home of James and Karen Lanman Dean, Williamsport, with 52 persons attending.

Following the dinner, the day was spent playing games and visiting.

For the coming year Delores Wilcox will serve as president and Doris Bell will be the secretary and treasurer. The reunion will be held the first Sunday in August at the home of Gertrude Seymour in Stoutsville.

Attending the event were Golda Conrad, Hernando, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. John Tomlinson, Mr. and Mrs. George G. Wharton, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Tomlinson and Christine, Granville; Mr. and Mrs. John R. Bell, Roger, Bob, Don, Ron and Mike; Pat Ramey, Ashville.

GE Workers

File Complaint

CINCINNATI (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board will hold a hearing Sept. 30 on a complaint by fourteen General Electric Co. employees who contend three unions fined them for crossing picket lines.

The employees, who work at GE's suburban Evendale plant, said they were fined $100 to $1,371 each for crossing lines during a nationwide strike against GE last fall.

They filed an unfair labor practice complaint Monday with the NLRB. Unions charged were Local 20 of the International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 647 of the United Auto Workers, and Lodge 912 of the International Association of Machinists.

The firm was ordered not to reduce service until Dec. 13, allowing time for an investigation and hearings. The PUCCO said it had received more than 100 complaints about the service reduction.

Miss Norma Butterbaugh Bride Of Jerry A. Gloyd

MR. AND MRS. JERRY ALLEN GLOYD

A double ring ceremony in the Fairview United Methodist Church on June 12 united in marriage Miss Norma Lee Butterbaugh and Mr. Jerry Allen Gloyd. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Butterbaugh, Route 1, Stoutsville and Mr. Gloyd is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar V. Gloyd, Route 2, Ashville. Rev. Homer Thompson Jr. and Rev. Charles Hemming officiated the 6:30 p.m. ceremony. Mrs. Lloyd P. Gallagher was organist and Mr. Homer Thompson Jr., vocalist.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in an A-line gown of white satin with an empire fitted lace bodice, long sleeves and a chapel length train trimmed in lace. Her shoulder length veil of silk illusion was caught to a cluster of rosebuds. The bride carried an arrangement of red and white rosebuds atop a white Bible. Mrs. J. O. Spangler, cousin of the bride, was the seamstress for the gown and veil designed by the bride.

Mrs. James Hartley, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Stanley Gloyd, sister-in-law of the bridegroom and Mrs. Don Butterbaugh, sister-in-law of the bride. Mrs. Hartley's gown was of heavenly blue satin with a lace bodice, empire waist and short sleeves. The bridesmaids were dressed as the matron of honor in a pale shade of blue. The attendants wore headpieces of satin bands and tulle matching their gowns. Each carried a bouquet of blue daisies and white rose buds.

Mr. Stanley Gloyd, brother of the bridegroom performed the duties of best man. Ushers were Mr. Edgar V. Gloyd Jr., Mr. Larry Gloyd, brothers of the bridegroom; Mr. Don Butterbaugh, brother of the bride and Mr. James Hartley, brother-in-law of the bride.

Miss Robin Sue Butterbaugh, niece of the bride, was flower girl wearing a dress styled as the attendants. Master Ronald Scott Butterbaugh, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer and Miss Shelly Gloyd, niece of the bridegroom, presided at the guest book.

Mrs. Butterbaugh selected for her daughter's wedding a navy

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dinah Shore's new daytime series got a much-needed jump on the new season with its NBC premiere Monday and may need every minute of it for its shake-up.

The half hour is set up in women's magazine format and aims to cover women's interests — as male show producers believed them to be in the days before Women's Lib.

"Dinah's Place" is a series of open-ended living room, kitchen, study, greenhouse and sewing room — and the show moves at a gallop from one room to another. Dinah, friendly, informal and breathless, has her work cut out if the series is to be more than a mad dash.

On the opening show — probably the toughest to handle since she was introducing the concept and some of her helpers — she showed the house, exhibited her oil paintings and needlepoint, cooked a platterful of Japanese shrimp under the eyes of her real-life housekeeper, sang, brought on her two children, told of coming attractions and wound up with a brief fashion show.

Historically, TV service programs for women never have done very well. Dinah rashly promises the ladies will be able to learn about the successful handling of men, children, wrinkles, extra pounds, horticulture, new recipes, hobbies, even sewing.

There wasn't time for in-depth cookery or in-depth anything else. And, although Dinah used three friends as models, the fashion show was pretty much a waste of time. Most of the nation's television sets are black and white — and in shades of gray, the most glamorous clothes are pretty unexciting.

If the pace could be slowed and the household hints reduced to fall within the average budget, the half hour might provide a welcome change from the usual TV morning diet of situation comedy reruns and game shows.

ABC will drop one of its soap operas after a four-month trial run. "The Best of Everything" will be abandoned at the end of September in a slight reshuffling of rerun situation comedies that will result in returning a half-hour time period to local stations.

CBS seems to be remodeling, piecemeal, "The Merv Griffin Show." Griffin will lose his announcer-sidekick, 76-year-old Arthur Treacher, in mid-August. He already has a new producer, Bob Shanks, Griffin's producer since the days of his afternoon NBC series, has left.

The new producer will be Walter Kempley, a veteran comedy writer who recently left David Frost.

All the activity seems aimed at beefing up the series' sagging ratings.

Toledo May Purchase Bus Line

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The city of Toledo is taking steps that may lead to public acquisition of the troubled Community Traction Co., the city bus line.

An 11-member ad hoc transit authority was set up last week to assure continued bus service and work out details of a possible public takeover early next year.

Whether the transfer takes place, depends on how Toledo residents vote on a proposal that would give the transit authority enough money to buy and operate Community Traction.

Traffic engineer Gene Riser, who is also acting in an advisory capacity to the ad hoc authority, said Toledoans would have to vote an increase in city property taxes to finance the purchase.

The bus company was estimated a year ago to be worth about $1.7 million, Riser said. But this estimate does not include more than $1 million owed to company employees' pension funds.

In order to secure federal aid for the proposed transit operation, Riser said, the city would probably have to shoulder this additional obligation.

Libya, Russia Put Pressure On Iraq To Support Nasser

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Libya and the Soviet Union put pressure on Iraq Monday to get behind President Gamal Abdel Nasser in his coming indirect negotiations with Israel.

As defense and foreign ministers of some Arab states gathered in Libya to discuss strategy in the wake of Israel's acceptance of the U.S. cease-fire proposal, Libyan strongman Muammar Kadhafi conferred in Cairo with the Egyptian president prior to visiting Baghdad.

Meanwhile, the Soviet government issued an "urgent invitation" for an Iraqi delegation to visit Moscow Tuesday. The Soviets were expected to threaten to reduce military and other aid to Iraq unless the Iraqis eased their opposition to the American proposal and the Egyptian and Jordanian acceptance of it.

Iraq and Algeria both announced they would boycott the meeting of Arab ministers opening in Tripoli today, and Syria was expected to follow their lead.

That would leave only Egypt, Jordan, Sudan and Libya represented.

Nasser said in a statement he was "astounded" by the Iraqi attacks on Egypt for accepting the proposal for a 90-day cease-fire to improve the climate for a new attempt at mediation by U.N. envoy Gunnar Y. Jarring. Nasser said Iraq should turn its attention to military action against Israel instead of criticizing Egypt's diplomatic position.

Jarring arrived in New York to discuss "possible next steps" Egypt, Jordan and Israel of the American proposal. The proposal calls on these three main adversaries in the Middle East to "begin to work out under Ambassador Jarring's auspices the detailed steps necessary" to carry out the 1967 Security Council resolution that laid down principles for an Arab-Israeli peace settlement. It calls for Israel's withdrawal from territory seized in the 1967 war and Arab recognition of Israel's right to exist as a state within secure boundaries.

Amid the talk of cease-fire and the diplomatic maneuvering, military action continued along Israel's frontiers and the Suez Canal.

The Israeli Command said mortar fire from Lebanon wounded two Israeli soldiers at the eastern end of the frontier, and Arab guerrillas from Lebanon blew up a tool shed at a settlement on that part of the border.

Israeli planes on Sunday attacked Egyptian positions along the canal and targets in Jordan.

The population of the Dutch island of Aruba has doubled during the past 20 years to almost 60,000 persons in 1969. In 1965, the latest year for which figures are available, the birthrate was 21.53 per 1,000 and the death rate 3.45 per 1,000.

If the pace could be slowed and the household hints reduced to fall within the average budget, the half hour might provide a welcome change from the usual TV morning diet of situation comedy reruns and game shows.

ABC will drop one of its soap operas after a four-month trial run, "The Best of Everything" will be abandoned at the end of September in a slight reshuffling of rerun situation comedies that will result in returning a half-hour time period to local situations.

CBS seems to be remodeling, piecemeal, "The Merv Griffin Show." Griffin will lose his announcer-sidekick, 76-year-old Arthur Treacher, in mid-August. He already has a new producer, Bob Shanks, Griffin's producer since the days of his afternoon NBC series, has left.

The new producer will be Walter Kempley, a veteran comedy writer who recently left David Frost.

All the activity seems aimed at beefing up the series' sagging ratings.

Toledo May Purchase Bus Line

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The city of Toledo is taking steps that may lead to public acquisition of the troubled Community Traction Co., the city bus line.

An 11-member ad hoc transit authority was set up last week to assure continued bus service and work out details of a possible public takeover early next year.

Whether the transfer takes place, depends on how Toledo residents vote on a proposal that would give the transit authority enough money to buy and operate Community Traction.

Traffic engineer Gene Riser, who is also acting in an advisory capacity to the ad hoc authority, said Toledoans would have to vote an increase in city property taxes to finance the purchase.

The bus company was estimated a year ago to be worth about $1.7 million, Riser said. But this estimate does not include more than $1 million owed to company employees' pension funds.

In order to secure federal aid for the proposed transit operation, Riser said, the city would probably have to shoulder this additional obligation.

Libya, Russia Put Pressure On Iraq To Support Nasser

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Libya and the Soviet Union put pressure on Iraq Monday to get behind President Gamal Abdel Nasser in his coming indirect negotiations with Israel.

As defense and foreign ministers of some Arab states gathered in Libya to discuss strategy in the wake of Israel's acceptance of the U.S. cease-fire proposal, Libyan strongman Muammar Kadhafi conferred in Cairo with the Egyptian president prior to visiting Baghdad.

Meanwhile, the Soviet government issued an "urgent invitation" for an Iraqi delegation to visit Moscow Tuesday. The Soviets were expected to threaten to reduce military and other aid to Iraq unless the Iraqis eased their opposition to the American proposal and the Egyptian and Jordanian acceptance of it.

Iraq and Algeria both announced they would boycott the meeting of Arab ministers opening in Tripoli today, and Syria was expected to follow their lead.

That would leave only Egypt, Jordan, Sudan and Libya represented.

Nasser said in a statement he was "astounded" by the Iraqi attacks on Egypt for accepting the proposal for a 90-day cease-fire to improve the climate for a new attempt at mediation by U.N. envoy Gunnar Y. Jarring.

Nasser said Iraq should turn its attention to military action against Israel instead of criticizing Egypt's diplomatic position. Jarring arrived in New York to discuss "possible next steps" Egypt, Jordan and Israel of the American proposal. The proposal calls on these three main adversaries in the Middle East to "begin to work out under Ambassador Jarring's auspices the detailed steps necessary" to carry out the 1967 Security Council resolution that laid down principles for an Arab-Israeli peace settlement. It calls for Israel's withdrawal from territory seized in the 1967 war and Arab recognition of Israel's right to exist as a state within secure boundaries.

Amid the talk of cease-fire and the diplomatic maneuvering, military action continued along Israel's frontiers and the Suez Canal.

The Israeli Command said mortar fire from Lebanon wounded two Israeli soldiers at the eastern end of the frontier, and Arab guerrillas from Lebanon blew up a tool shed at a settlement on that part of the border.

Israeli planes on Sunday attacked Egyptian positions along the canal and targets in Jordan.

The population of the Dutch island of Aruba has doubled during the past 20 years to almost 60,000 persons in 1969. In 1965, the latest year for which figures are available, the birthrate was 21.53 per 1,000 and the death rate 3.45 per 1,000.

Dear Abby: Is Thrill Of Pot Worth The Price?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I caught your radio program and heard you rattle off a list of things a person stands to lose if he is arrested for possession of marijuana. I'd like to show them to a few kids I know. Thank you very much. Sign me...

"SIXTEEN AND NO DOPE"

DEAR SIXTEEN: He stands to lose: The right to vote. The right to own a gun. The right to run for public office. The right to become a licensed doctor, dentist, C.P.A., attorney, architect, realtor, private detective, pharmacist, school teacher, barber, or any of a number of career job opportunities.

He may be forbidden the opportunity to work for the city, state or federal government. He cannot be admitted to West Point, Annapolis or the Air Force Academy. He would be permitted to enlist in the military service, but would not have a choice of service.

Not to mention the loss of approval of family, friends, potential friends and society at large.

This is a high price to pay for "trying grass" ... or even agreeing to "hold it for a friend," which is often the case. Think about it.

DEAR ABBY: First off, let me explain that I am no kid. I am a 23-year-old college graduate, female type.

After being engaged since last winter, my fiancée and I decided to go off by ourselves and get married. (It was a religious ceremony.) My brother was best man, but that was all the "family" I had at the ceremony.

To be honest about it, the wedding plans became so complicated, nerve-racking and ridiculously expensive we decided to skip all the frills and get it over with.

My problem is my mother. She wants to send out engraved marriage announcements and "at home" cards to the 368 people we had on our wedding invitation list. I told her I didn't want to do that, but her reply was, "Your father and I have been giving wedding gifts for 30 years, and these people owe us a gift for you." Furthermore, she says the parents (she and Dad) announce the marriage, and the bride (me) has nothing to say about it. Is she right?

MARRIED IN CONN.

DEAR MARRIED: The parents do "announce" the marriage of their children, but rarely without the approval of the bride. Since you don't want announcements and "at home" cards sent, I think your mother should respect your wishes.

DEAR ABBY: We've been married only a few months and already I have a very serious problem. My husband divorced his first wife because she had an affair with another man. Believe me, now I can understand why she did, because even though he has many good qualities, this man has got to be the world's worst lover!

I have tried to make him think he's great, because I know how hurt his pride was when he found out about his first wife's unfaithfulness. But, Abby, I don't know how I can stay married to him with this constant frustration.

I have considered seeing some old boyfriends. I really think it could save our marriage, because we get along so well in every other department.

I'm in my mid-thirties and this is my first marriage. I know it won't be easy to find another husband as good as this one at my age, but marriage with no sexual satisfaction is worse than being single.

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Since you get along so well in every other department, I suggest you initiate a truth session with him. As long as you keep telling him how "great" he is, when he's the "world's worst lover," why should he improve? There are plenty of excellent books on this subject. Your doctor can recommend several. So can your public library.

And so can I, if you're interested, please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fulbright Raps Pact With Spain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright challenged Monday a pending executive military agreement with Spain, charging that the pact involves commitments which should be subject to Senate confirmation.

The Arkansas Democrat said the White House plan, ostensibly extending U. S. use of three bases in Spain for five years, contains provisions which would lead to mushroomed costs and perhaps even Vietnam-type entanglements.

In remarks prepared for floor delivery, Fulbright called for legislation that would force President Nixon to submit the measure as a treaty.

Fulbright's move carried the same overtones as the Cooper-Church amendment, recently passed by the Senate, which would limit Nixon's powers for military involvement in Cambodia.

He said the executive agreement, scheduled for signing in two weeks, could produce "direct and indirect costs of ... $400 million over five years."

"The Portuguese, the Greeks, the Turks, the Ethiopians, the Thais, the Filipinos, the South Koreans, the Taiwanese, even the Japanese, are watching to see what kind of settlement the Spaniards receive," he said.

"We have bases in each one of those countries and thus the costly price paid Spain could and probably would be repeated many times over."

Ohio Officials Note Alarming Drug Use

Each day the concern of law enforcement officials over the sale and use of narcotics spreads deeper over the local, state and national scenes.

Larry Heinzerling of the Columbus Bureau of the Associated Press has taken a look at the situation in a four-part series—dealing first with the problem, then enforcement, education and cure.

By LARRY HEINZERLING
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "The alarming increase in use and abuse of drugs should be of concern to all citizens. It has become a major problem on and around most college campuses. It is spreading to teenagers clear down to the junior high level."

That is an assessment by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Dr. Alan E. Zimmer, director of the newly-created Bureau of Drug Abuse, estimates there are at least 20,000 drug addicts in Ohio.

"The magnitude of this problem is enormous ... some people disagree with my figures, I don't argue with them, but stupid I am not," he said.

Zimmer says up to 25 per cent of Ohio junior high and senior high school students are involved in some form of drug abuse.

If there are criticism of Zimmer's figures it is because they are generally considered too conservative.

A state-wide survey of police departments by The Associated Press discloses what is described as "an alarming" increase in the use and availability of marijuana, heroin, amphetamines, LSD and other hallucinogens.

Columbus Police report a 1,500 per cent increase in drug-related arrests in the past 10 years. In 1959 a total of 20 drug abusers were arrested. The figure for 1969 stood at 352.

Police in Cleveland, who note a sharp rise in youthful drug offenders, say 403 persons were arrested on drug charges in 1969. In 1968, the figure was 253.

Gabriel Mulligan, in charge of the Cincinnati police's narcotics division, says drug abuse has skyrocketed. In 1960, he said drug arrests numbered less than 50 a year, but recently there have been up to 60 arrests a month "because there are so many more people using and selling the stuff."

Dayton police report narcotics violations have increased 264 per cent in the last three years. There were 309 arrests in 1969.

Reports from Toledo, Athens and other cities across the state mirror the trend.

"The crime drug addicts generate is beyond belief," says Police Sgt. Davis Spencer of the Dayton police force. "Sixty-three per cent of the residential burglars since the first of the year were drug addicts." "About 33 per cent of armed robbers," he added, "were drug abusers too."

Other policemen related similar experiences.

The following statement by a Columbus narcotics agent typifies the scene reported in many cities:

"The addict, that's the heroin addict, he buys most of the hard drugs. A lot of college students smoke marijuana and use LSD. Another group of users use pep pills. Others use barbiturates. Others try anything whatsoever. The heroin traffic is moving into the college areas. That's opening up a new market. Marijuana is all over the city."

Don Howard, chief of the Cleveland office of the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, says Ohio has the same drug problems being experienced across the nation.

Howard said noticeable trends include drugs moving from the black ghettos to white suburbs and a definite shift in the age of drug abusers from adults to the young.

"The bulk of the addicts in 1960 were between the ages of 21 and 30," said Howard. "Now we're showing a definite trend to those under the age of 18."

Active addicts under the age of 21, he said, have increased nationally by 1,769 per cent since 1960.

Howard concedes along with other law enforcers "no one really knows valid statistics on the matter," but he says trends indicate "Ohio has a much smaller problem than many other states."

It is generally agreed by local, state and federal officials that the most widely distributed drug in Ohio is marijuana, which is available in virtually any city in the state.

Columbus police recently seized 220 pounds of marijuana, worth an estimated $25,000 in what has been called the largest confiscation ever of the drug in Ohio.

Cheek, a Negro who heads Howard University said he was "very very pessimistic" about the outlook for peace on the campuses this fall. Mitchell said he thought colleges would be calmer with militants finding themselves without a following.

Repression Questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviets are showing serious interest in the United States' proposal to limit strategic missiles but have yet to commit themselves on its key features.

This initial Soviet reaction has emerged from accounts of the two formal meetings and other discussions at the U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) at Vienna last week following the American offer.

The Russians were said to be seeking more information about the U.S. plan while neither committing themselves to it nor making polemic statements against it.

Washington officials therefore continue to be encouraged about the prospects for reaching an historic agreement on curbing the superpower nuclear arms race, though a formal pact would still seem to be many months away.

In Akron 125 pounds of fresh-cut marijuana was seized recently by Summit County sheriff's detectives from the back of a truck. It was valued at $20,000.

State officials report the existence of up to seven underground drug laboratories in Ohio, which produce synthetic drug compounds like LSD and amphetamines for local distribution.

Ohio's prisons report a higher population of youths in recent years, most of them drug offenders.

State officials say about three per cent or 290 of the 9,690 now in prison in Ohio are drug offenders.

Of that total, about 198 were convicted for use, possession or sale of marijuana, alone, and "92 of those are in state reformatories for juveniles."

Drugs were a prime topic at the recent Midwest Governors Conference held in Columbus with all participants echoing the sentiments of Gov. Robert Docking of Kansas, who said, "Drug abuse in the United States is more serious today than any other time in our nation's history."

Gov. William Guy of North Dakota remarked that some of today's "pillars of society" made their fortunes from illegal alcohol during prohibition.

"Some future pillars of society," he added, "are now making a fortune out of drugs."

MAJOR LEAGUE
standings

Table with Major League standings for National League and American League, including East and West divisions with team names and win-loss records.

Hot-Hitting Padres Stop Lethargic Cincy Reds, 10-3

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Cincinnati Manager George "Sparky" Anderson says his runaway Western Division leaders can't seem to generate much enthusiasm when they play San Diego's second-year expansion team. The Padres made it six victories in 11 meetings with the Reds when they dumped them, 10-3, here Monday night. Cincinnati holds an edge over every other National League rival except the Chicago Cubs, who took seven of 12 in the season series. If the Reds can't seem to get themselves up for meetings with San Diego, the Padres understand. They can't get up, themselves, for anything except confrontations with the pennant contenders. "I don't know why, but we play a lot better against the good teams than we do the weaker ones," said San Diego Manager Preston Gomez after the Padres beat the Reds for the third time in a row. Pat Dobson, 7-10, attempts to nail down a sweep of the two-game Cincinnati series tonight when he opposed left-hander Jim Merritt, 15-10. The Padres are 20-21 against the top two teams in each division—6-5 against the Reds, 5-7 against the Dodgers, 3-3 against the Pirates and 6-6 against the Mets. By comparison, they are 23-44 against the tailenders. It all adds up to increased fan interest here, though some of it stems from the controversy that erupted July 22 at San Diego Stadium when Gomez, deprived right-hander Clay Kirby of an opportunity of pitching a no-hitter in the eighth inning of a game against the Mets. Kirby, pitching here for the first time since then, had a surprisingly large crowd of 14,857 rooting for him when he conquered the Reds for the fifth time in nine lifetime decisions. The Padres left for a tour of the East two days after the no-hit episode and there was a flood of mail awaiting both Gomez and Kirby when they returned here Monday. "All of the mail and the way the fans cheered me made this game extra special," said the 22-year-old Kirby after a near-miss in his bid to become only the second pitcher to shut out the Reds this season. He had a five-hit shutout until three singles, two of them in-field bleachers, loaded the bases with two out in the eighth inning. The tiring Kirby walked Bernie Carbo to force home a run, then survived two Cincinnati runs in the ninth. Circleville Oil Leads Slow Pitch Circleville Oil won the first round of the Circleville Slow Pitch League with a record of 8-0 and the Circleville Independents finished second with 7-1 on the books. Second round standings are: Circleville Oil 5-0, Circleville Merchants 4-1, C. E. Wardell Const. 3-3, PPG Industries 3-3, Circleville Independents 2-2, DuPont D shift 1-2, Owens-Illinois 1-3, Logan Elm Village 1-4, General Electric 0-2. Kochheiser Edges Savings Bank, 6-5 Phillip Roll tossed a one-hitter for the Kochheiser "9" as they edged the Savings Bank, 6-5, in Pony League action. Roll fanned nine batters and walked five in his win. His counterpart, Rick Ramsey gave up only two hits while whiffing seven would-be hitters and walking four. Harold Dearth tagged the only extra base hit of the fray for the winners with a double. Minnesota Twins Split Twinbill With Milwaukee By MIKE RECHT Associated Press Sports Writer The Minnesota Twins barely managed to keep their run-scoring streak alive, but still found it easier than keeping their pitchers healthy. After putting Dave Boswell on the 21-day disabled list earlier in the day, the Twins lost ace Jim Perry to a pulled groin muscle in the ninth inning before they completed a 2-1 victory over Milwaukee in the opener of their two-night doubleheader Monday. In the nightcap, the Twins pushed across two runs in the ninth inning before losing 4-2, but managed to keep intact their string of having scored in 120 straight games, including the last 18 in 1969. Elsewhere, the California Angels managed to retake sole possession of second place in the American League West behind the Twins by dropping Oakland to third with a 5-0 victory over the A's, Washington blanked Detroit 4-0 and Kansas City beat the Chicago White Sox 7-2. No other games were scheduled. If Perry should be sidelined—the injury wasn't believed serious—it would only keep going Minnesota's bad-luck string of

Players Flood Training Camps As Grid Strike Ends

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League was back in business today with everyone happy about the settlement of the game's first strike and getting in shape for the start of preseason play. The most serious labor dispute in the history of American professional sports—which even unprecedented federal mediation failed to resolve—ended Monday following a marathon 22-hour session involving executives of all 26 clubs and the entire seven-man players' committee. Quarterbacking the action at the league's Park Avenue office was Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who finally stepped out of his role as a supposedly neutral observer, brought both sides together and kept them there until they reached agreement. The four-year, $19.1-million package involves $4,535,000 a year in owners' contributions to the players' pension fund—the amount the owners had offered at the start of the dispute—plus $250,000 a year in disability, widow maternity and dental benefits—the owners' apparent compromise since their previous offer. Thus the players are getting $7.9 million more through the life of this pact than they did under the old one when the owners contributed $2.8 million a year in pensions and benefits for a $11.2 million four-year total. Within minutes of the announcement of the agreement, players began checking in at training camps, mindful of the heavy schedule they face to prepare for this weekend's opening of the exhibition schedule. Twenty teams will be in action, all on Saturday. The Cleveland Browns' game in Los Angeles against the Rams, originally set for Friday night, was moved back 24 hours to give the teams an extra practice day. Regular-season play begins Sept. 20. Typical of the comments offered by the arriving veterans was the statement by New Orleans Saints player representative Errol Linden. "We're happy it's over, that negotiations have been completed," he said. "We've come down eight times in demands now but the owners didn't budge until today." He acknowledged there would be bitterness around the league toward the 22 veterans who crossed the imaginary picket line and reported to camps before the settlement. But he added: "They all had personal reasons for going in and I feel they were justified." The dispute began nearly four months ago—ultimately requiring 56 days of bargaining in that span—and peaked about a month ago with both sides still $8 million apart. When the NFL Players Association asked its 1,300 members to stay away from the training camps, the owners retaliated by opening the camps just to rookies, locking out the veterans. Only the World Champion Kansas City Chiefs, with special approval of the NFLPA, were allowed to train in preparation for the College All-Star charity game last Friday night in Chicago. The collegians, who staged a one-day training boycott in support of the NFL players, were smothered 24-3 by the Chiefs, who promptly disbanded after the game. Cancellation of the first weekend of exhibitions would have cost the NFL exactly 1 million dollars—$50,000 by each competing team including $280 by each five-year veteran. In addition to the pension benefits, the players will receive increased pay and per diem for preseason play that will cost the owners an average of $2.6 million annually. The owners had previously agreed to these increases.

Rozelle Credited With Football Settlement

By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — From a quiet command post in a spacious suite 13 stories above the rumble of Park Avenue traffic, Pete Rozelle guides the violent world of professional football with fingertip control. Still youthful at 43, the 6-foot-2 commissioner of the National Football League is a low key executive with a firm grasp of a sport that has summited constant crises during his 10 highly successful years at the helm. Crisis is the name of the game in pro football. If it is not a $10 million law suit, it is a Paul Hornung-Alex Karras gambling problem. If it is not a new television contract, it is Joe Namath and Bachelors III. If it is not expansion, it is merger and realignment. Through it all Rozelle stands tall in the saddle, guiding the sport to the point where it generally is accepted as the top spectator diversion of the nation. In recent days the player strike and pension dispute challenged his position by attacking certain aspects of his power. The players had attempted to line him up with management as an employer but later dropped the request. He agreed to name an arbiter in injury grievance cases but all other aspects of his authority remained unchanged. If it were not for Rozelle's persuasive powers there would have been no federal mediation by the owners in this bitter struggle that shuttered training camps and threatened to wipe out the preseason schedule. Take this from one who knows. "Pete Rozelle certainly was important to the situation," said Curtis Counts, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service Director. "It's a good thing they used his offices to settle it. The football commissioner is sort of a czar over 26 owners who are independent individuals, tied together in the bargaining. The 'czar' role of the commissioner has no counterpart in other industries that engage in collective bargaining." Take your time. Talk to all sides. Listen carefully. Let others project their ideas. Then step in quickly. That is the Rozelle formula. It worked once again in the pension dispute. The two groups debated for months. Rozelle did his best to keep in touch with both sides. After federal mediation was tried, the two groups withdrew and sparred at sword's length. Rozelle made the moves that helped bring them together over the weekend. At 1:30 a.m. Monday the 26 NFL club executives and the seven members of the players' committee were all in Rozelle's league office. Pete, in and out of the office all day and night, was constantly involved. It is worth noting that when the dispute finally was settled, there was not the usual news conference. Each side issued a brief statement and went home. Rozelle remained in the back-ground. This was to have been a year of stabilization, a season to so-lidy gains and start planning for the end of the decade when six more teams will be added to form a balanced 32-team league, split into eight four-team divisions. Conflict with the players rocked the boat. Now that calm has been restored, the master plan for the future will be implemented step by step. A little more than 10 years ago, Jan. 26, 1960, the NFL owners, reaching out for a compromise candidate after days and nights of dispute, selected Rozelle to succeed the late Bert Bell as commissioner. Under Bell, the NFL had survived World War II and a fierce dollar skirmish with the All-American Conference to establish itself as a flourishing sport with an awesome future. Under Rozelle, the league expanded from 12 teams to 16 and finally to 26 after a peaceful merger brought an end to the baby sitting bonus war with the American Football League. Television revenue, equally divided among all the clubs after Rozelle persuaded Congress to legalize single network contracts with sports leagues, has increased from $1.8 million to an estimated $150 million four-year contract with all three networks. Attendance has boomed to the point where fans leave season tickets to favorite heirs in their wills and sellouts are the order of the day. Rozelle, of course, didn't do it all by himself. But he has been the guiding hand behind most of the gains. As Art Rooney, the pioneer owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers, once said, "Pete Rozelle is a gift from the hand of Providence."

Ron Reed Brings Back Power To Atlanta Braves

By HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer Out of the shambles of a lost weekend, like a phoenix rising from the ashes of what once was Atlanta's pitching staff, suddenly appeared Ron Reed. Shell-shocked by 37 runs in three games—the last seven in Houston's 7-5 opening game victory Monday night, Braves' Manager Luman Harris probably still can't believe what happened when he handed the ball to Reed for the second game against the Astros. A six-hitter is what happened. A real, honest to goodness six-hitter, and it was a complete game too. That, in case you haven't been paying attention, hasn't been routine around the Braves lately. Elsewhere in the National League Monday night, Chicago whipped New York 6-1, Montreal blanked Pittsburgh 8-0, St. Louis trimmed Philadelphia 4-1, San Diego battered Cincinnati 10-3 and San Francisco beat Los Angeles 5-2. Reed, whose broken collarbone made a mess of Atlanta's pitching before the rest of the National League got around to it, throttled Houston and got all the runs he needed on consecutive second inning homers by Orlando Cepeda and Hal King. It was only the fourth complete game in the last month for the Braves' pitching staff which was shredded for 30 runs in two games against the Pirates Saturday and Sunday. It looked like more of the same when the Astros bounced from behind to overtake Atlanta in the first game of the doubleheader. Bob Watson drove in three runs with a single and a home run and pitcher George Culver's two-strike bunt single started the winning rally in the seventh inning. But Reed turned the tables in the nightcap. Pittsburgh roared into Montreal and was promptly cooled off by Dan McGinn, who spun a three-hitter for the Expos. It was McGinn's first victory since July 8 and his first complete game since May 15 when he also beat the Pirates. Bob Bailey hammered a three-run homer that climaxed a six-run Expo explosion in the fourth inning. McGinn, meanwhile, did not allow a hit after the second against the Pirates, who had 37 hits in their two games over the weekend against Atlanta. The Pirates' one-game lead in the NL East remained intact when New York bowed to Chicago and Ferguson Jenkins on a three-hitter. Jenkins held the Mets hitless for six innings and Johnny Callison tagged a homer for the Cubs. Chicago moved to within 2½ games of first place but suffered a serious blow when pitcher Bill Hands was taken to Roosevelt Hospital suffering from acute appendicitis. St. Louis used home runs by Carl Taylor, Julian Javier and Jose Cardenal to beat Philadelphia. Mike Torrez allowed five hits to earn the victory. Ollie Brown powered the Padres past Cincinnati, driving in five runs with a homer and a double. Clay Kirby rode the heavy San Diego hitting to the victory, scattering 11 hits. Homers by Willie McCovey and Jim Hart moved San Francisco past Los Angeles as rookie Lee Pitlock bested Bill Singer. McCovey's 26th of the year climaxed a four-run first for the Giants. The Louisville Colonels helped out by shutting out second-place Tidewater 1-0. In other action, Rochester pounded Winnipeg 10-1, and the Columbus Jets beat the Richmond Braves 7-3. George Pena hit a bases loaded homer to add some lustre to the Chiefs' victory. It was his 14th homer of the year and his second grand slam effort. Spier pitched a three-hitter in notching his seventh victory against four losses. The Jets collected nine hits as they beat the Braves at Columbus, with all but one of their seven runs clustered in the second and seventh innings.

Chiefs Whip Mud Hens

First National Bank Takes Dreamspot In LL Minor Loop

First National Bank took over the dreamspot in the Little League Minor race Monday night topping Second National, 15-4, while Blue Ribbon slipped to second, losing a thriller, 5-4. In the First National fray, Roy Huffer tagged a round-tripper and a double to lead the losers at the plate. Denny Williams hit a homer for the winners. Tom McGuire and Dave Cline were the winning hurlers while Todd Mancini, Brian Conner and Mike Mahoney tossed for the Second Bankers. Circleville Oil won the tilt in the bottom of the sixth inning with a three run stanza. Mike Linton nailed a single with a man on third to score him when Mike Mogan made it to second on a walk and a stolen base before Jim Walker cracked a triple to score Linton and Mogan for the win. TOM Hill banged a homer for the winners while Scott McFarland hit two two-basers and Allen and Skinner added doubles. Circleville Oiler Walker hit his winning triple and Mike Linton batted a double. Allen and McFarland suffered the loss on the hill for the former frontrunners in the loop allowing seven hits. The Dairymen tagged nine hits in the fray but couldn't hold off the Oilers. George Foreman Faces Chuvalo

NEW YORK (AP) — When George Foreman takes his perfect 21 for 21 record into the Madison Square Garden ring tonight against George Chuvalo, the 21-year-old Canadian heavy weight has to be thinking about what happened to MacFoster in June. Foster, another California heavyweight, came East with an even more impressive record of 24 knockouts in 24 winning fights. He was knocked out by Jerry Quarry in 2:09 of the sixth round, June 17. Some may think Foreman is being rushed a little too fast. This will be only his 22nd pro fight in about 14 months. He won the Olympics in Mexico City in 1968 and fought his first pro bout June 22, 1969 in a preliminary on the Joe Frazier-Quarry title show. Intelligent Ann Wins Scioto Downs Race COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Intelligent Ann, a 4-year-old pacer driven by owner Charles Brown of Springfield, took the lead at the three-quarter pole and went on to win the featured race at Scioto Downs Monday night in a new lifetime mark of 2:05 2/5. The winner paid $6.40, $5 and $3.20. Dreamy Marie returned $8.60 and $4.80 for second and Adios Jim was worth $3.40 for show. H. K. and Single Star combined (3-1) for a daily double payoff of $56.80. The 1-8 quinella was worth $93. Attendance was 4,773; handle $215,302.

Minnesota Twins Split Twinbill With Milwaukee

By MIKE RECHT Associated Press Sports Writer The Minnesota Twins barely managed to keep their run-scoring streak alive, but still found it easier than keeping their pitchers healthy. After putting Dave Boswell on the 21-day disabled list earlier in the day, the Twins lost ace Jim Perry to a pulled groin muscle in the ninth inning before they completed a 2-1 victory over Milwaukee in the opener of their two-night doubleheader Monday. In the nightcap, the Twins pushed across two runs in the ninth inning before losing 4-2, but managed to keep intact their string of having scored in 120 straight games, including the last 18 in 1969. Elsewhere, the California Angels managed to retake sole possession of second place in the American League West behind the Twins by dropping Oakland to third with a 5-0 victory over the A's, Washington blanked Detroit 4-0 and Kansas City beat the Chicago White Sox 7-2. No other games were scheduled. If Perry should be sidelined—the injury wasn't believed serious—it would only keep going Minnesota's bad-luck string of injuries to its pitchers. Boswell, 3-6 with back trouble this season, departed and was replaced by Luis Tiant, who made his first start in the second game since being sidelined with a shoulder injury May 26. The Twins also lost reliever Stan Williams for several games and rookie Bert Blyleven for two starts with arm trouble earlier this season. Perry was breezing to his 16th victory against nine losses with a five-hitter entering the ninth, but he left with a count of 2-2 on the first hitter. Tom Hall came on and struck out the side. Rich Reese drove in both Minnesota runs, the first with a double in the sixth and the second with a tie-breaking infield single in the eighth against loser Marty Patt, 8-10. But Lew Krausse, 11-11 stopped the Twins cold on four hits for eight innings in the nightcap, and even singled in a run in the ninth for a 4-0 lead. But the Twins broke the shut-out on their final try with two runs on hits by Danny Thompson, Harmon Killebrew and Tom Holt. Tiant looked good, giving up only one run in five innings before leaving. However, Williams came in and gave up Bob Burda's two-run homer in the sixth. The unhealthy, but run-scoring Twins still managed to hang onto a seven game lead over the Angels, who rode Rudy May's four-hitter to a one game lead over Oakland, which suffered only its third loss in 14 games. The Angels jumped on Jim Hunter, 15-9, for four runs in the fourth inning as Jim Spencer drove in one run with a triple and two more came in on doubles by Jay Johnstone and Bill Voss. Dick Bosman, 11-8, scattered eight hits—two of them to start the seventh inning—and Joe Grzenda came on and allowed only one more as Washington dropped the Tigers into third place, a half game behind idle New York in the American League East. The Senators scored their four runs on five singles in the third inning off Mike Kilkey, 5-2. Mike Epstein singled in the last two. Kansas City broke a three-game losing streak with a 15-hit attack behind Bob Johnson, 4-7, who silenced the White Sox on four hits. Cookie Rojas had a single, double and a triple and scored three runs, Lou Piniella had four singles, one run scored and one RBI and Bob Oliver crashed a three-run homer.

Hot-Hitting Padres Stop Lethargic Cincy Reds, 10-3

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Cincinnati Manager George "Sparky" Anderson says his runaway Western Division leaders can't seem to generate much enthusiasm when they play San Diego's second-year expansion team.

The Padres made it six victories in 11 meetings with the Reds when they dumped them, 10-3, here Monday night. Cincinnati holds an edge over every other National League rival except the Chicago Cubs, who took seven of 12 in the season series.

If the Reds can't seem to get themselves up for meetings with San Diego, the Padres understand. They can't get up, themselves, for anything except confrontations with the pennant contenders.

"I don't know why, but we play a lot better against the good teams than we do the weak ones," said San Diego Manager Preston Gomez after the Padres beat the Reds for the third time in a row.

Pat Dobson, 7-10, attempts to nail down a sweep of the two game Cincinnati series tonight when he opposed left-hander Jim Merritt, 15-10.

The Padres are 20-21 against the top two teams in each division—6-5 against the Reds, 5-7 against the Dodgers, 3-3 against the Pirates and 6-6 against the Mets. By comparison, they are 23-44 against the tailenders.

It all adds up to increased fan interest here, though some of it stems from the controversy that erupted July 22 at San Diego Stadium when Gomez, deprived right-hander Clay Kirby of an opportunity of pitching a no-hitter in the eighth inning of a game against the Mets.

Kirby, pitching here for the first time since then, had a surprisingly large crowd of 14,857 rooting for him when he conquered the Reds for the fifth time in nine lifetime decisions.

The Padres left for a tour of the East two days after the no-hit episode and there was a flood of mail awaiting both Gomez and Kirby when they returned here Monday.

"All of the mail and the way the fans cheered me made this game extra special," said the 22-year-old Kirby after a near-miss in his bid to become only the second pitcher to shut out the Reds this season.

He had a five-hit shutout until three singles, two of them infield bloopers, loaded the bases with two out in the eighth inning. The timing Kirby walked Bernie Carbo to force home a run, then survived two Cincinnati runs in the ninth.

Circleville Oil Leads Slow Pitch

Circleville Oil won the first round of the Circleville Slow Pitch League with a record of 8-0 and the Circleville Independents finished second with 7-1 on the books.

Second round standings are:

Kochheiser Edges Savings Bank, 6-5

Phillip Roll tossed a one-hitter for the Kochheiser "9" as they edged the Savings Bank, 6-5, in Pony League action.

Roll fanned nine batters and walked five in his win.

His counterpart, Rick Ramsey gave up only two hits while whiffing seven would-be hitters and walking four.

Harold Dearth tagged the only extra base hit of the fray for the winners with a double.

Minnesota Twins Split Twinbill With Milwaukee

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Minnesota Twins barely managed to keep their run-scoring streak alive, but still found it easier than keeping their pitchers healthy.

After putting Dave Boswell on the 21-day disabled list earlier in the day, the Twins lost ace Jim Perry to a pulled groin muscle in the ninth inning before they completed a 2-1 victory over Milwaukee in the opener of their twin-night doubleheader Monday.

In the nightcap, the Twins pushed across two runs in the ninth inning before losing 4-2, but managed to keep intact their string of having scored in 120 straight games, including the last 18 in 1969.

Elsewhere, the California Angels managed to retake sole possession of second place in the American League West behind the Twins by dropping Oakland to third with a 5-0 victory over the A's. Washington blanked Detroit 4-0 and Kansas City beat the Chicago White Sox 7-2. No other games were scheduled.

If Perry should be sidelined—the injury wasn't believed serious—it would only keep going Minnesota's bad-luck string of injuries to its pitchers.

Boswell, 3-6 with back trouble this season, departed and was replaced by Luis Tiant, who made his first start in the second game since being sidelined with a shoulder injury May 26. The Twins also lost reliever Stan Williams for several games and rookie Bert Blyleven for two starts with arm trouble earlier this season.

Perry was breezing with his 16th victory against nine losses with a five-hitter entering the ninth, but he left with a count of 2-2 on the first hitter. Tom Hall came on and struck out the side.

Rich Reese drove in both Minnesota runs, the first with a double in the sixth and the second with a tie-breaking infield single in the eighth against loser Marty Patt, 8-10.

But Lew Krausse, 11-11 stopped the Twins cold on four hits for eight innings in the nightcap, and even singled in a run in the ninth for a 4-0 lead.

But the Twins broke the shutout on their final try with two runs on hits by Danny Thompson, Harmon Killebrew and Tom Holt.

Tiant looked good, giving up only one run in five innings before leaving. However, Williams came in and gave up Bob Bur-

Players Flood Training Camps As Grid Strike Ends

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League was back in business today with everyone happy about the settlement of the game's first strike and getting in shape for the start of preseason play.

The most serious labor dispute in the history of American professional sports—which even unprecedented federal mediation failed to resolve—ended Monday following a marathon 22-hour session involving executives of all 28 clubs and the entire seven-man players' committee.

Quarterbacking the action at the league's Park Avenue office was Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who finally stepped out of his role as a supposedly neutral observer, brought both sides together and kept them there until they reached agreement.

The four-year, $19.1-million package involves $4,535,000 a year in owners' contributions to the players' pension fund—the amount the owners had offered at the start of the dispute—plus $250,000 a year in disability, widow maternity and dental benefits—the owners' apparent compromise since their previous offer.

Thus the players are getting $7.9 million more through the life of this pact than they did under the old one when the owners contributed $2.8 million a year in pensions and benefits for a $11.2 million four-year total.

Within minutes of the announcement of the agreement, players began checking in at training camps, mindful of the heavy schedule they face to prepare for this weekend's opening of the exhibition schedule.

Twenty teams will be in action, all on Saturday. The Cleveland Browns' game in Los Angeles against the Rams, originally set for Friday night, was moved back 24 hours to give the teams an extra practice day. Regular-season play begins Sept. 20.

Typical of the comments offered by the arriving veterans was the statement by New Orleans Saints player representative Errol Linden.

"We're happy it's over, that negotiations have been completed," he said. "We've come down eight times in demands now but the owners didn't budge until today."

He acknowledged there would be bitterness around the league toward the 22 veterans who crossed the imaginary picket line and reported to camps before the settlement. But he added: "They all had personal reasons for going in and I feel they were justified."

The dispute began nearly four months ago—ultimately requiring 56 days of bargaining in that span—and peaked about a month ago with both sides still $8 million apart.

When the NFL Players Association asked its 1,300 members to stay away from the training camps, the owners retaliated by opening the camps just to rookies, locking out the veterans.

Only the World Champion Kansas City Chiefs, with special approval of the NFLPA, were allowed to train in preparation for the College All-Star charity game last Friday night in Chicago.

The collegians, who staged a one-day training boycott in support of the NFL players, were smothered 24-3 by the Chiefs, who promptly disbanded after the game.

Cancellation of the first weekend of exhibitions would have cost the NFL exactly 1 million dollars—$50,000 by each competing team including $280 by each five-year veteran.

In addition to the pension benefits, the players will receive increased pay and per diem for preseason play that will cost the owners an average of $2.6 million annually. The owners had previously agreed to these increases.

Rozelle Credited With Football Settlement

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—From a quiet command post in a spacious suite 13 stories above the rumble of Park Avenue traffic, Pete Rozelle guides the violent world of professional football with fingertip control.

Still youthful at 43, the 6-foot-2 commissioner of the National Football League is a low key executive with a firm grasp of a sport that has summited constant crises during his 10 highly successful years at the helm.

Crisis is the name of the game in pro football. If it is not a $10 million law suit, it is a Paul Hornung-Alex Karras gambling problem. If it is not a new television contract, it is Joe Namath and Bachelors III. If it is not expansion, it is merger and realignment.

Through it all Rozelle stands tall in the saddle, guiding the sport to the point where it generally is accepted as the top spectator diversion of the nation.

In recent days the player strike and pension dispute challenged his position by attacking certain aspects of his power. The players had attempted to line him up with management as an employer but later dropped the request. He agreed to name an arbiter in injury grievance cases but all other aspects of his authority remained unchanged.

If it were not for Rozelle's persuasive powers there would have been no federal mediation by the owners in this bitter struggle that shuttered training camps and threatened to wipe out the preseason schedule.

Take this from one who knows. "Pete Rozelle certainly was important to the situation," said Curtis Counts, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service Director. "It's a good thing they used his offices to settle it. The football commissioner is sort of a czar over 26 owners who are independent individuals, tied together in the bargaining. The 'czar' role of the commissioner has no counterpart in other industries that engage in collective bargaining."

Take your time. Talk to all sides. Listen carefully. Let others project their ideas. Then step in quickly. That is the Rozelle formula.

Take your time. Talk to all sides. Listen carefully. Let others project their ideas. Then step in quickly. That is the Rozelle formula.

It worked once again in the pension dispute. The two groups debated for months. Rozelle did his best to keep in touch with both sides. After federal mediation was tried, the two groups withdrew and sparred at sword's length. Rozelle made the moves that helped bring them together over the weekend.

At 1:30 a.m. Monday the 26 NFL club executives and the seven members of the players' committee were all in Rozelle's league office, Pete, in and out of the office all day and night, was constantly involved.

It is worth noting that when the dispute finally was settled, there was not the usual news conference. Each side issued a brief statement and went home. Rozelle remained in the back-ground.

This was to have been a year of stabilization, a season to solidity gains and start planning for the end of the decade when six more teams will be added to form a balanced 32-team league, split into eight four-team divisions.

Conflict with the players rocked the boat. Now that calm has been restored, the master plan for the future will be implemented step by step.

A little more than 10 years ago, Jan. 26, 1960, the NFL owners, reaching out for a compromise candidate after days and nights of dispute, selected Rozelle to succeed the late Bert Bell as commissioner. Under Bell, the NFL had survived World War II and a fierce dollar skirmish with the All-American Conference to establish itself as a flourishing sport with an awesome future.

Ron Reed Brings Back Power To Atlanta Braves

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Out of the shambles of a lost weekend, like a phoenix rising from the ashes of what once was Atlanta's pitching staff, suddenly appeared Ron Reed.

Shell-shocked by 37 runs in three games—the last seven in Houston's 7-5 opening game victory Monday night, Braves' Manager Luman Harris probably still can't believe what happened when he handed the ball to Reed for the second game against the Astros.

A six-hitter is what happened. A real, honest to goodness six-hitter, and it was a complete game too. That, in case you haven't been paying attention, hasn't been routine around the Braves lately.

Elsewhere in the National League Monday night, Chicago whipped New York 6-1, Montreal blanked Pittsburgh 8-0, St. Louis trimmed Philadelphia 4-1, San Diego battered Cincinnati 10-3 and San Francisco beat Los Angeles 5-2.

Reed, whose broken collarbone made a mess of Atlanta's pitching before the rest of the National League got around to it, throttled Houston and got all the runs he needed on consecutive second inning homers by Orlando Cepeda and Hal King.

It was only the fourth complete game in the last month for the Braves' pitching staff which was shredded for 30 runs in two games against the Pirates Saturday and Sunday.

It looked like more of the same when the Astros bounced from behind to overtake Atlanta in the first game of the double-header. Bob Watson drove in three runs with a single and a home run and pitcher George Culver's two-strike bunt single started the winning rally in the seventh inning. But Reed turned the tables in the nightcap.

Pittsburgh roared into Montreal and was promptly cooled off by Dan McGinn, who spun a three-hitter for the Expos. It was McGinn's first victory since July 8 and his first complete game since May 15 when he also beat the Pirates.

Bob Bailey hammered a three-run homer that climaxed a six-run Expo explosion in the fourth inning. McGinn, meanwhile, did not allow a hit after the second against the Pirates, who had 37 hits in their two games over the weekend against Atlanta.

The Pirates' one-game lead in the NL East remained intact when New York bowed to Chicago and Ferguson Jenkins on a three-hitter.

Jenkins held the Mets hitless for six innings and Johnny Callison tagged a homer for the Cubs. Chicago moved to within 2½ games of first place but suffered a serious blow when pitcher Bill Hands was taken to Roosevelt Hospital suffering from acute appendicitis.

St. Louis used home runs by Carl Taylor, Julian Javier and Jose Cardenal to beat Philadelphia. Mike Torrez allowed five hits to earn the victory.

Ollie Brown powered the Padres past Cincinnati, driving in five runs with a homer and a double. Clay Kirby rode the heavy San Diego hitting to the victory, scattering 11 hits.

Homers by Willie McCovey and Jim Hart moved San Francisco past Los Angeles as rookie Lee Pitcock bested Bill Singer. McCovey's 26th of the year climaxed a four-run first for the Giants.

First National Bank Takes Dreamspot In LL Minor Loop

First National Bank took over the dreamspot in the Little League Minor race Monday night topping second National, 15-4, while Blue Ribbon slipped to second, losing a thriller, 5-4.

In the First National fray, Roy Huffer tagged a round-tripper and a double to lead the losers at the plate. Denny Williams hit a homer for the winners.

Tom McGuire and Dave Cline were the winning hurlers while Todd Mancini, Brian Conner and Mike Mahoney tossed for the Second Bankers.

Circleville Oil won the tilt in the bottom of the sixth inning with a three run stanza. Mike Linton nailed a single with a man on third to score him when Mike Mogan made it to second on a walk and a stolen base before Jim Walker cracked a triple to score Linton and Mogan for the win.

TOM Hill banged a homer for the winners while Scott McFarland hit two two-basers and Allen and Skinner added doubles.

Circleville Oiler Walker hit his winning triple and Mike Linton batted a double. Allen and McFarland suffered the loss on the hill for the former front-runners in the loop allowing seven hits. The Dairymen tagged nine hits in the fray but couldn't hold off the Oilers.

George Foreman Faces Chuvalo

NEW YORK (AP)—When George Foreman takes his perfect 21 for 21 record into the Madison Square Garden ring tonight against George Chuvalo, the 21-year-old Canadian heavy weight has to be thinking about what happened to MacFoster in June.

Foster, another California heavyweight, came East with an even more impressive record of 24 knockouts in 24 winning fights. He was knocked out by Jerry Quarry in 2:09 of the sixth round, June 17.

Some may think Foreman is being rushed a little too fast. This will be only his 22nd pro fight in about 14 months. He won the Olympics in Mexico City in 1968 and fought his first pro bout June 22, 1969 in a preliminary on the Joe Frazier-Quarry title show.

Intelligent Ann Wins
Scioto Downs Race

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Intelligent Ann, a 4-year-old pacer driven by owner Charles Brown of Springfield, took the lead at the three-quarter pole and went on to win the featured race at Scioto Downs Monday night in a new lifetime mark of 2:05 2-5.

The winner paid $6.40, $5 and $3.20. Dreamy Marie returned $8.60 and $4.80 for second and Adios Jim was worth $3.40 for show.

H. K. and Single Star combined (31) for a daily double payoff of $56.80. The 1-8 quinella was worth $83.

Attendance was 4,773; handle $215,302.

Speedway Winners Announced

Jim Lanman won the fast feature and Ernie Adams captured the slow feature to highlight the action at Salt Creek Valley Speedway.

Ralph Thomas, Roy McMillan, Bob Crace and Jim Vanover followed Lanman across the finish line in the fast feature.

Bill Boysel finished a close second in the slow feature trailed by Roger Carter, Bill Secrest and Roger Speakman. Ron Huffman was the fastest qualifier and Crace won the helmet dash.

THE consi was taken by Tom Congrove with Crace second and Ralph Thomas third.

Ron Duval won the first heat with Roger Carter and Jim Porter trailing.

The second heat went to Avery Conley followed by McMillan and Tom Alexander.

Ron Allen captured the third heat with Paul Copen and Lanman grabbing second and third.

STOP

3 acres with a perfect barn for those horses. You'll reminisce with the charm of yesteryear in this spacious older home, while at the same time you'll feel like you have just stepped inside the pages of your latest home magazine. You'll love the newly remodeled beauty of this home from the huge new kitchen, full of the latest thing in cupboards, and the best in built ins, to the luxurious new baths with built in vanities. This is the older home you always wanted but with the work already done, just waiting for you to enjoy.

AND
MAKING
GOOD MONEY
(Recession Proof)

We're proud to talk about our business. It's fascinating.
Dynamic. Appeals to the small investor. No experience necessary. With very little money he or she can achieve financial satisfaction—quickly or moderately. It's yours to decide.

Ours is a vending machine program. The best. We establish route locations. Provide finest line of snack items. We train, counsel, guide, hold your hand until you're firmly entrenched. No experience necessary. Just honesty, integrity, willingness to listen, work and give good service.

You need a car and at least $600 for minimum investment strictly for equipment and inventory. No fee or extra of any kind required.
Be ambitious and willing to expand.

Vigorous 4-billion plus recession proof business. Cash sales. No credit risks. Works for you day and night—even while you sleep. Quick turnover. Original investment can be returned in short time.

Requires only 6 to 8 hours per week of serious attention. Like getting retirement pay, annuity or pension — only better!

If you're serious, sincere, let's talk. Letter preferred, giving name, address, phone number, and sufficient references to verify. Write to:

Ussery Industries, Inc.,
1195 Empire Central,
Dept. 5625A

SPORTS Highlights

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Cliff Cook won the 36-hole Toledo Open Golf Championship Monday, although he admittedly "played like a chopper the last 18."

"I'm real pleased to win, especially on my home course," the host pro said after carding a 68-77-145 on the par-72 Belmont Country Club layout.

Pat Lindsey of Toledo, an amateur, and Gene Boni, assistant pro at Sylvania Country Club, tied for second with 146s. Trailing them were Mike Dunn of Toledo and Joe Koclarczyk of Fremont with 147s.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — James Hylton, an independent Ford driver from Inman, S.C., has recaptured the lead in NASCAR's Grand National championship point standings.

Hylton regained first place Sunday in the Dixie 500 at Atlanta when Bobby Isaac fell victim to engine failure after 83 laps.

Hylton finished 10th and Isaac was 35th. Hylton goes into this week's series of three short-tracks with a lead of 31 points.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Don DeJardin has been named general manager of the National Basketball Association's Philadelphia 76ers, a team he helped raid for the rival American Basketball Association.

The 34-year-old DeJardin has been given a three-year contract. 76ers' owner Irv Kosloff has announced. DeJardin got the 76ers' job despite the fact he helped the Carolina Cougars of the ABA entice Billy Cunningham to sign with the Cougars.

WATCH OUT! — From the looks of things, Pickaway County Fair King Larry Kempton had better follow orders of Vicki Fraunfelter, queen for the week. That's no rolling pin Vicki has in her hands, but the big wooden mallet at one of the midway concessions looks like it might pack a bigger punch.

Fulbright Says Use Of TV By President 'Dangerous'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said today that easy presidential access to television represents a "dangerous, unchecked power."

"There is nothing in the Constitution which says that, of all elected officials, the President alone shall have the right to communicate with the American people," declared the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

"That privilege was a gift of modern technology, coming in an age when chronic war and crisis were already inflating the powers of the presidency," he added.

Fulbright testified as a Senate communications subcommittee opened hearings into a bill he is sponsoring to require television networks to provide Congress and the judiciary a minimum of four free opportunities each year to lay their views before the public.

"As strongly as possible," Fulbright said, "it should be emphasized that the focus of this bill is institutional—not partisan."

Fulbright said whatever the argument, for or against broadcast time for political parties, there can be no justification for denying equal time to co-equal branches of government.

"Although the bill does not say so explicitly," said Fulbright, "it is implicit in the proposal that congressional access to the media would not simply be a matter of responding to

Orchestra Votes Not To Accept Proposed Pact

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Orchestra has voted 84-14 not to accept a proposed new three-year contract from the Musical Arts Association.

New talks now will have to be started between the association and Local 4 of the American Federation of Musicians. The proposed pact, rejected Monday, would have provided pay increases from the current weekly minimum of $255 to $265 the first year, $272.50 the second and $280 the third.

The proposed contract also called for three additional holidays, increased per diem allowances for tours and limitations on the length of concerts.

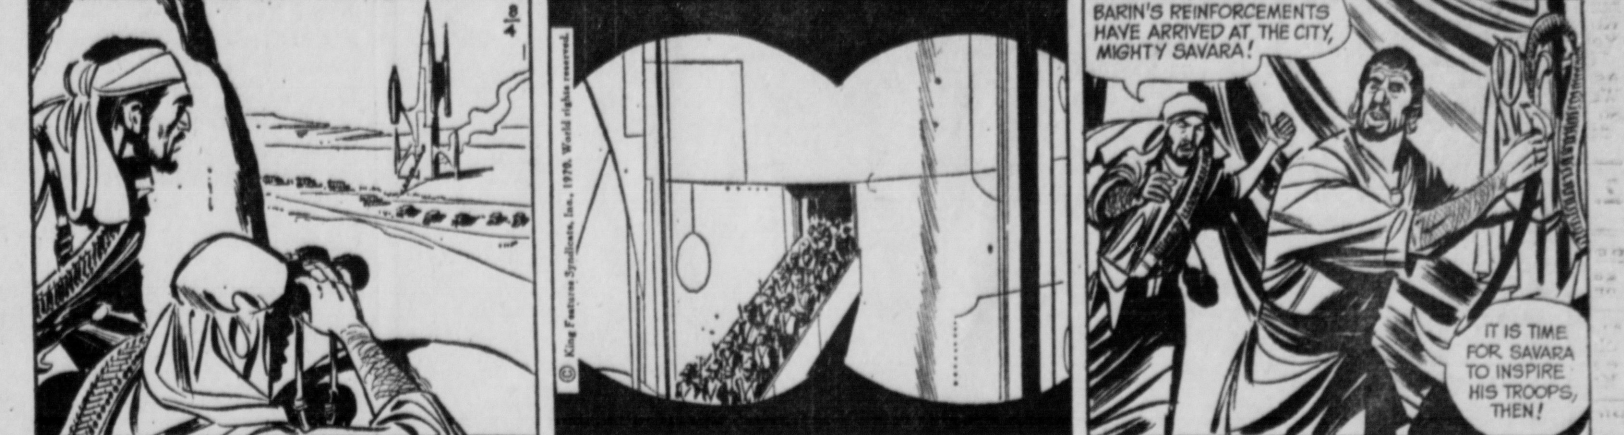

Even though the contract has been rejected, a separate vote is needed before the orchestra can call a strike.

CUT WINTER HEATING BILLS NOW

The Gas Company has a plan that makes it easy. It's a 12-month Budget Payment Plan that lets you avoid peak heating bills in the cold months by spreading the cost of your winter heating over the entire year. Here's how the plan works. You simply slice up your yearly heating bill into twelve small equal parts. And with Gas, that's slicing it pretty thin! The amount you would pay each month will be shown on your next gas bill.

Ask about our Budget Payment Plan at your local gas company office.

SPORTS Highlights

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Cliff Cook won the 36-hole Toledo Open Golf Championship Monday, although he admittedly "played like a chopper the last 18."

"I'm really pleased to win, especially on my home course," the host pro said after carding a 68-77—145 on the par-72 Belmont Country Club layout.

Pat Lindsey of Toledo, an amateur, and Gene Boni, assistant pro at Sylvania Country Club, tied for second with 146. Trailing them were Mike Dunn of Toledo and Joe Koclarzyk of Fremont with 147s.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) James Hylton, an independent Ford driver from Inman, S.C., has recaptured the lead in NASCAR's Grand National championship point standings.

Hylton regained first place Sunday in the Dixie 500 at Atlanta when Bobby Isaac fell victim to engine failure after 83 laps.

Hylton finished 10th and Isaac was 35th. Hylton goes into this week's series of three short-track races with a lead of 31 points.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Don DeJardin has been named general manager of the National Basketball Association's Philadelphia 76ers, a team he helped lead for the rival American Basketball Association.

The 34-year-old DeJardin has been given a three-year contract 76ers' owner Irv Kosloff has announced. DeJardin got the 76ers' job despite the fact he helped the Carolina Cougars of the ABA entice Billy Cunningham to sign with the Cougars.

WATCH OUT! — From the looks of things, Pickaway County Fair King Larry Kempton had better follow orders of Vicki Fraumelter, queen for the week. That's no rolling pin Vicki has in her hands, but the big wooden mallet at one of the midway concessions looks like it might pack a bigger punch.

Fulbright Says Use Of TV By President 'Dangerous'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said today that easy presidential access to television represents a "dangerous, unchecked power."

"There is nothing in the Constitution which says that, of all elected officials, the President alone shall have the right to communicate with the American people," declared the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

"That privilege was a gift of modern technology, coming in an age when chronic war and crisis were already inflating the powers of the presidency," he added.

Fulbright testified as a Senate communications subcommittee opened hearings into a bill he is sponsoring to require television networks to provide Congress and the judiciary a minimum of four free opportunities each year to lay their views before the public.

"As strongly as possible," Fulbright said, "it should be emphasized that the focus of this bill is institutional—not partisan."

Fulbright said whatever the argument, for or against broadcast time for political parties, there can be no justification for denying equal time to co-equal branches of government.

"Although the bill does not say so explicitly," said Fulbright, "it is implicit in the proposal that congressional access to the media would not simply be a matter of responding to presidential speeches or interviews.

"It might of course be used for that purpose, but, under this bill Congress would have the right to report to the nation on its own initiative," he said.

On such occasions, he added, the President would be given a chance to respond if he wanted to.

Orchestra Votes Not To Accept Proposed Pact

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Orchestra has voted 84-14 not to accept a proposed new three-year contract from the Musical Arts Association.

New talks now will have to be started between the association and Local 4 of the American Federation of Musicians. The proposed pact, rejected Monday, would have provided pay increases from the current weekly minimum of $255 to $265 the first year, $272.50 the second and $280 the third.

The proposed contract also called for three additional holidays, increased per diem allowances for tours and limitations on the length of concerts.

Even though the contract has been rejected, a separate vote is needed before the orchestra can call a strike.

CUT WINTER HEATING BILLS NOW

The Gas Company has a plan that makes it easy. It's a 12-month Budget Payment Plan that lets you avoid peak heating bills in the cold months by spreading the cost of your winter heating over the entire year. Here's how the plan works. You simply slice up your yearly heating bill into twelve small equal parts. And with Gas, that's slicing it pretty thin! The amount you would pay each month will be shown on your next gas bill.

Ask about our Budget Payment Plan at your local gas company office.

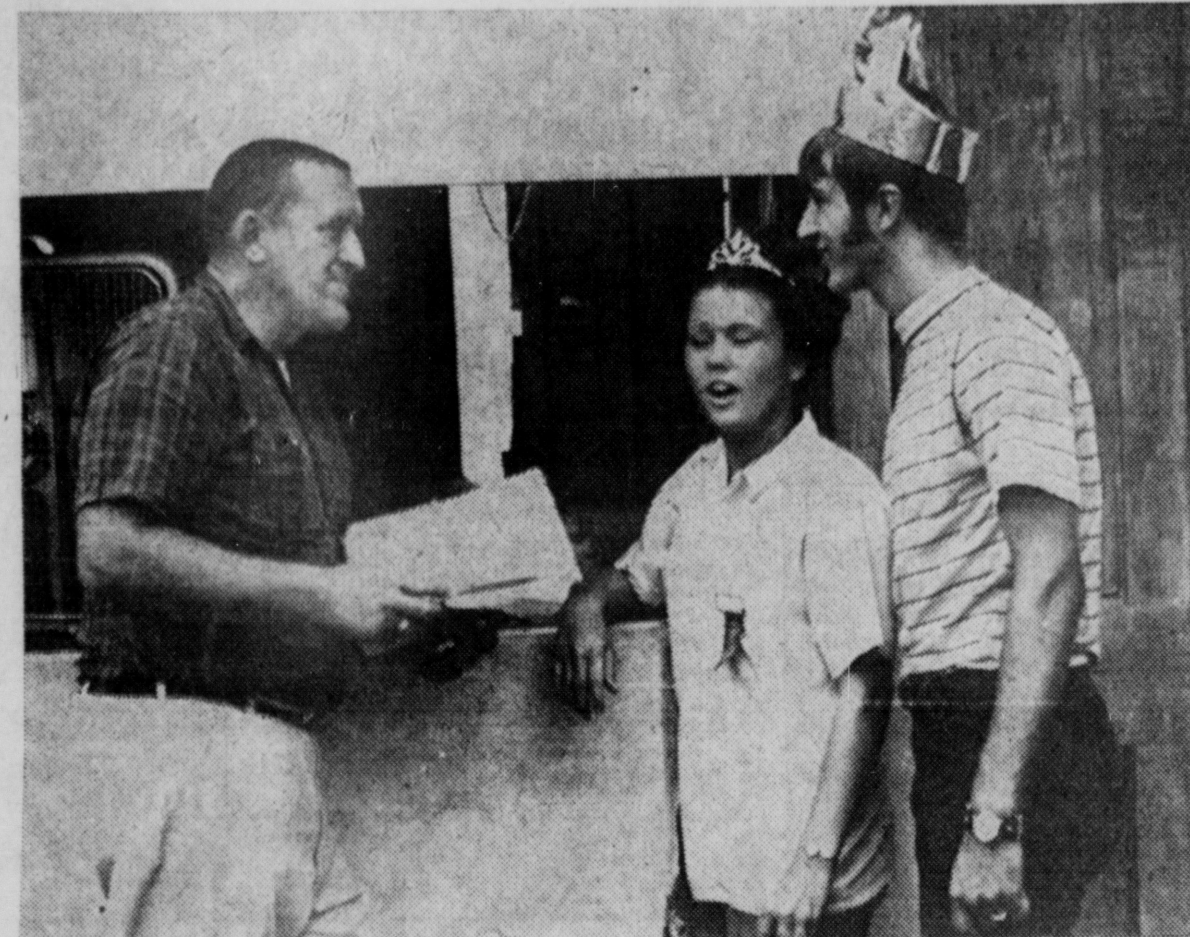

YOU'VE GOT GAS ON YOUR SIDE.

WHAT'S THAT, GEORGE? — George Hamrick, Pickaway County agricultural extension agent, goes over the week's schedule with fair king and queen Larry Kempton and Vicki Fraumfelter. To Vicki, it sounds as though there can't possibly be that many hours during the week.

television accounts of the case, "there are many possible leaks." Among them, he said, are visits from jurors' spouses on weekends and the chance a juror might glance at a newsstand headline while riding to and from court.

Nixon's remarks in Denver came as he arrived for a conference on law enforcement. His lengthy statement to newsmen included this comment:

"As we look at the situation today, I think the main concern that I have is the attitudes that are created among many of our younger people and also perhaps older people as well, in which they tend to glorify and to make heroes out of those who engage in criminal activities.

"This is not done intentionally by the press. It is not done intentionally by radio and television. I know. It is done perhaps because people want to read or see that kind of story.

"I noted, for example the coverage of the Charles Manson case when I was in Los Angeles was front page every day in the papers. It usually got a couple of minutes in the evening news.

"Here is a man who was guilty, directly or indirectly, of eight murders without reason."

Manson, 35, and three women followers—Leslie Van Houten, 20, Susan Atkins, 21, and Patricia Krenwinkel, 22—are on trial for the slayings of Miss Tate and six others last August. Manson also is charged in a separate case with the slaying last summer of a Malibu musician, Gary Hinman.

In his remarks, Nixon further said of Manson: "Here is a man, yet who, as far as the coverage was concerned, appeared to be rather a glamorous figure."

Late Monday, Fitzgerald said he couldn't understand the President's remarks about "glamor" since most media had depicted Manson as "a murderous man- rauder and other such terms . . . He's been maligned quite viciously. I don't know how you could call that glamorizing."

Deputy Dist. Atty. Vincent T. Bugliosi said he felt the press hadn't glamorized Manson "but perhaps a segment of the public has."

The defense has contended from the outset that publicity had precluded the possibility of a fair trial.

Meanwhile, the state's star witness, Linda Kasabian, 21, resumed the stand for defense cross-examination. She was accused of murder-conspiracy with the others but was granted immunity from prosecution when she agreed to testify for the state.

The green-eyed mother of two children has testified that Manson ordered the murders of Miss Tate, a blonde, pregnant actress, and four visitors the night of Aug. 8.

The next night, she said, he took members of his clan roaming through Los Angeles in a random search for more victims.

After the slayings of a wealthy market owner, Leno LaBianca, and his wife, she said, Manson took members for a walk on the beach. He bought them milkshakes, she said, and then ordered her to slit another man's throat. She says she thwarted that plot by knocking on the wrong apartment door.

Hundreds of business buildings including banks, stood windowless and vulnerable.

Pilcher said 3,000 persons were staying in 14 shelters in various parts of the city.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., who arrived just before the hurricane struck, requested President Nixon to declare the Coastal Bend section a disaster area.

"I don't think I've ever seen such devastation in an urban area since World War II," said Tower.

Maj. Kent Odom, regional commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said rescue units sent in Monday night would be augmented today with department helicopters and communications vans.

Odom said hospitals in Aransas Pass, Robstown and Corpus Christi were heavily damaged, including the U.S. Naval Hospital and Corpus Christi State Hospital.

Dennis Richter, unit manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., estimated 100 per cent of Corpus Christi's buildings were damaged.

Fifty to 60 boats were overturned and wrecked in the Corpus Christi marina.

At Aransas Pass, Walker said most of the town's residents rode out the storm.

"We tried to evacuate them, but most of them wanted to sit here and ride these things out," he said.

Farm experts said damage to the $150 million coastal rice, cotton and grain sorghum crops would be heavy. Farmers were in the midst of the rice harvest and cotton was just forming bolls.

A Humble Oil Refining Co. facility burst into flame at Ingleside. A Shell Oil Co. pipeline was reported ablaze there, with a third oil fire reported at Alice, farther inland.

Celia, the third hurricane of 1970, was the first this year to strike the U.S. mainland.

Pickaway Grange

A picnic supper was enjoyed by members of Star Grange when they met Tuesday evening at the Monroe School auditorium.

The worthy master, Harold Furniss, presided over the business session and the charter was draped in memory of Rilla Liston and Hershel Newson, past master of National Grange. A contribution was made to the Red Cross for ditty bags for soldiers in Vietnam. A news letter was read by our secretary, Helen Hammel from a soldier in Vietnam who was a grange member.

Mrs. Otha Lewis, director of the women's devices, discussed plans for service at the 4-H and Grange dining center on Wednesday of the Fair. Arrangements were made for the men to serve at the gates on Wednesday.

It was announced that Pomona Grange will be held on Friday evening, Aug. 14 at 8 p.m. This will feature the county sewing and baking contest. All granges are urged to participate.

The program, under the direction of the worthy lecturer, Laura Long, opened with the thought for the day, "The Grange and Our Flag" presented by the chaplain, Florence Long. A reading "The Fourth of July" was presented by Mrs. Otha Lewis, followed by the group singing "The Star Spangled Banner." Mrs. Robert Morgan read "I Am An American."

A contest on the Lincoln penny was held and the group sang "Old Glory." The lecturer then read flag cautions and the program closed with a prayer, "Be Worthy of Our Flag."

There will be no August meetings and the next regular meeting will be held Sept. 9 and will be election of officers.
